4 Hostages Taken in Breakout

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (UPI) — A judge, two jurors and a prosecutor were kidnaped at gunpoint from a courtroom Friday. The judge was shot to death inside an escape van and three of his kidnapers — Negroes shouting, "We are the revolutionaries" — died in a hail of police gunfire.

Three others were wounded, including the prosecutor, one of the women jurors and another kidnaper.

Three of the kidnapers were San Quentin convicts and the fourth an accomplice who smuggled guns in to them in the courtroom of Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley.

ice who smuggled guns in to them in the courtroom of Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley.

They terrorized court employees and county workers in the corridors before marching the hostages — Haley with a sawed-off shotgun taped to his head — out of the sprawling, arched Marin County civic center.

Law officers ordinarily were not allowed to carry guns in courtrooms in the building, one of the last designed by the late Frank Lloyd Wright, because it would be "offensive to the public taste."

Dead are Haley; James F. McClain, 37, who was on trial in the courtroom for assaulting a prison guard; William A. Christmas, 27, a convicted burglar there to testify; and the young Negro who freed them at gunpoint, tentatively identified as Jonathan P. Jackson, 17, of Pasadena.

Assistant District Attorney Gary W. Thomas, 32, was in grave condition with two bullet wounds, one of them reportedly in the spine.

A SPOKESMAN at San Quentin prison said Jackson is the brother of George L. Jackson, one of three Soledad Prison inmates charged with murdering a guard at Soledad.

Mrs. Maria Elena Graham, one of two women jurors also held hostage, stumbled out of the riddled van and collapsed bleeding on the pavement but was expected to recover. The fourth kidnaper, Russell Magee, 31, a convicted abductor and robber, also was seriously wounded.

McClain, a 37-year-old convicted burglar, was being tried for attacking a San Quentin guard with a knife and Magee was shackled to the witness stand, waiting to testify, when a

Doctors Hit Cutbacks at Norwalk Hospital

By GEORGE LAINE
Staff Writer

A representative cross-section of doctors, nurses, psychologists, social workers — and even a sprinkling of patients — Friday closed ranks to condemn "steady reductions" in psychiatric programs at Norwalk's Metropolitan Hospital.

Blaming Gov. Ronald Reagan specifically, the employees of the 1,600-patient facility also criticized the state for indifferent attitudes toward drug abuse at the hospital and critical understaffing in key psychiatric jobs.

Moreover, they said, the state has withheld Short-Doyle funds, already authorized by the Legislature, and failed to sign its contract of agreement with Los Angeles County for funding mental health programs at Metropolitan for fiscal 1969-70. That fiscal year ended on June 30.

The furor over conditions at the hospital surfaced early this week when Dr. Ronald C. Smith charged that personnel had been stripped from many patient wards to staff key offices at the hospital, producing a generally lower level of care in the wards. The net result of this practice, the doctor explained, is that patients discharged as "cured" are often back at the admissions office before the paper work on their previous stay can be processed.

Dr. Smith's declarations were minimized by Dr. George Abe, superintendent of the sprawling, open door hospital. But Dr. George Maculans, associate superintendent who sat through the conference at which Dr. Smith made his charges, did not contradict any of his comments. While Dr. Smith was unavailable Friday, other doctors were not.

"It should be understood," said Dr. Harry J. Rosenthal, senior psychologist at Metropolitan, "that this is not a one-man campaign, conducted solely by Dr. Smith."

"There are many of us who share his view — and his concern — for the quality of treatment being given at this hospital."

"We have had serious questions about the deterioration of this care for the past year or so, since Gov. Reagan embarked on his economy campaign," Dr. Rosenthal said. "We are acutely aware of the need for economy but to strip the program of its effectiveness is not economy but wastefulness."

Dr. Rosenthal's criticisms of the governor's economy moves were echoed by Dr. Carl Ellis, a psychiatrist, and by Dr. Albert Griffith, a psychologist. Dr. Ellis said it appeared that key state mental health officials neither receive nor desire a line of communication with on-the-job doctors. Dr. Griffith said the tragedy is "not that we're robbing Peter to pay Paul, (by taking personnel from wards to work in offices) but that we're robbing both."

PSYCHIATRIC nurse Jerry Shelley produced a statement to support claims that wards containing as many as 60 or more mental patients are staffed with one person on duty during night shifts. It indicated that 32 wards were staffed in that manner in

COOLER WEEKEND... DROP TO 90

It'll be a bit cooler this weekend, but there'll still be coastal fog in the early morning and inland smog in the afternoon, the Weather Bureau says.

Forecasters predict a high of 90 and a low of 65 for the Southland. Friday's high was 93.

Mountain and desert areas will remain warm, with widely scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers.

Linda Expected to Go Free Monday; Witness Hunted

By MARY NEISWENDER
Staff Writer

Linda Kasabian, the chief prosecution witness in the Tate-LaBianca murder case, is expected to walk out of court Monday a free woman.

The pig-tailed former member of Charles Manson's "family" has admitted being in the marauding band at the homes of actress Sharon Tate and market owner Leno LaBianca when they were murdered along with five others, but has been granted immunity from prosecution because of her testimony.

Defense attorneys told Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Charles Older they would file a motion that the girl be given immediate immunity, instead of waiting until the end of her testimony because then she can be an "unfettered" witness. Prosecutors indicated they would not oppose the motion.

Meanwhile, both prosecution and defense investigators began a search of the city for the Harvard University student who had traveled with Mrs. Kasabian as she fled from the Manson cult following the murders.

The youth had slipped into court as a spectator to watch his former hitchhiking companion testify. They exchanged brief greetings, but by the time both sets of attorneys realized the student was the one they had been hunting for many months, he again

558,000 Jobless in State

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's adjusted unemployment rate soared to 6.2 per cent during July, reflecting sluggishness in the economy and continued layoffs in the aerospace industry, the state announced Friday.

The seasonally-adjusted unemployment rate was six per cent in June.

The Department of Industrial Relations reported 558,000 Californians were out of work in July, an increase of 15,000 over the June unemployment total.

MOST OF the blame was assigned to difficulties in manufacturing industries, especially continued cutbacks in the aerospace field, said the report. The level of employment in California plants was 1.6 million in June, a decline of about 100,000 from the level of a year ago, the department said.

The employment picture was brighter in the San

ANOTHER AMERICAN KIDNAPED

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — A 65-year-old U.S. agricultural expert joined a wounded American security official and a Brazilian diplomat in the Tupamaro roster of kidnap victims Friday in a new guerrilla move to force the release of all Uruguayan political prisoners.

The latest kidnaping came only hours before the midnight deadline which the leftist group had set for the government to free an estimated 150 prisoners in exchange for the foreign hostages.

Shortly after Claude Fly of Fort Collins, Colo., was taken from a laboratory in which he worked, four suspected Tupamaro chiefs were seized by police in the first break since the wave of kidnappings began last Friday.

Later, officials said, police and army troops seized 11 more suspected Tupamaros during a sweep through the city, which had been virtually sealed off from the rest of the tiny nation.

Those arrested included Raul Sencic, who helped found the Tupamaro movement in 1963; Raul Bidegain Greisinger, a ring-leader sought for murdering policemen, kidnapping public officials and bombings;

Alicia Rene Rey Morales, alleged to be a Tupamaro firearms instructor; and Nelly Jorge Panceria, said to be a leading woman member.

Police informants said Bidegain was carrying several personal documents that belonged to Dan A. Mitrone, 50, a U.S. advisor to Uruguayan police who was shot and kidnaped a week ago and accused of being a spy.

The other Tupamaro hostage, seized the same day as Mitrone, is Brazilian Consul Aloysio Dias Gomide.

In Washington, officials of International Development Services Inc. expressed "extreme concern" over the fate of Fly, who was reported to have just recovered from pneumonia and has a history of respiratory ailments.

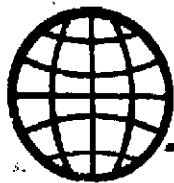

"We have been assured by the State Department that they are leaving no stone unturned in their efforts to secure his safe release," said Peter Rosenblatt, chairman of the IDS board. "We hope and pray he will not be harmed."

Fly's wife, Mariam, is in Montevideo.

The first word of Fly's capture came from a Tupamaro spokesman who phoned Montevideo radio stations and warned the agricultural expert would suffer the same fate as other captives unless the government bowed to guerrilla demands.

The Uruguayan government has thus far refused to give in to a Tupamaro demand that it release 11 of the nation's political prisoners in exchange for Mitrone and Dias Gomide.

Key Cambodian Town Retaken With U.S. Aid

Combined News Services

PHNOM PENH — U.S.-trained Cambodian mercenaries supported by allied air strikes recaptured the crossroads town of Skoun today after eight days of bitter fighting, a spokesman said. The elite "Mike Force" soldiers lent to Cambodia by the U.S. Green Berets, drove into the city behind a wave of air strikes. Cambodian spokesmen refused to identify them, but earlier in the week U.S. planes were seen bombing at Skoun.

The spokesmen said "everything is back in order at Skoun." They said Cambodian losses were light, and Communist losses were "considerable" in the battle between an estimated 1,000 Communist troops and at least three battalions of the mercenaries. No figures for either side were announced, although the spokesmen did say 50 Communist weapons were captured.

W. German, Soviet Ministers Sign Treaty

MOSCOW — Soviet and West German foreign ministers Friday initiated a nonaggression treaty both hailed as a major step in efforts to relax East-West tension and ensure the future peace of Europe. The historic documents, a product of West German Chancellor Willy Brandt's policy of reconciliation with the Soviet bloc, commits both sides to renounce the use of force in all their relations. The treaty must be ratified by the parliaments of both nations before it goes into effect.

French Hailstorms Peril Grape Crop

BEAUNE — Violent hailstorms swept across parts of central France Friday, destroying up to 80 per cent of the crop in what promised to be an excellent year in the Burgundy vineyards. Hailstones the size of eggs devastated the ripening grapes of hundreds of acres of Beaune, Nuits St. Georges, Pommard, Volnay and Meursault. The hailstones also damaged windows, roofs, cars and camper's tents.

Foreign Newsmen 'Unsafe' in Cambodia

TOKYO — Prince Norodom Sihanouk's exile Cambodian government said Friday it "will not be responsible for the safety of any foreign journalist who enters or departs from the liberated areas" of Cambodia. In a broadcast from Hanoi, Sihanouk's government also declared newsmen accompanying "U.S. troops, Saigon troops or troops of the Lon Nol reactionaries" would be unsafe in Cambodia. The statement came five days after the capture of Robert Anson.

Brazilian 'Maniac' Suspect in 7th Killing

SAO PAULO — Another woman was found strangled to death Friday, and police express belief she may have been the seventh victim of a "maniac" who has been on a killing spree in this Brazilian metropolis for several weeks. A bulldozer operator came across the body as he was leveling an empty lot. The morgue was unable to immediately identify her. Authorities have few clues concerning the recent wave of stranglings. Newspapers have attributed the crimes to a maniac. The victims were all women.

Special Tokyo Session Discusses Pollution

TOKYO — The Tokyo Metropolitan Assembly convened Friday a five-day extraordinary session to discuss a $3.6-million program to combat pollution in the world's largest city. The session is the first of its kind ever convened by the assembly and followed weeks of public criticism that Tokyo was fast becoming the world's most polluted city. The money would be used to track down sources of pollution and establish countermeasures, including an "antipublic hazards task force" which would check the exhausts of automobiles for excessive pollution.

Excursion Boat Sinks—12 Feared Dead

YVOIRE — A French excursion boat carrying 35 passengers and crewmen sank during a violent thunderstorm on Lake Geneva Friday. Officials said 12 tourists were feared dead. The launch was on a regular 8-mile trip between the Swiss town of Nyon and the village of Yvoire when the storm struck. All passengers were thrown to one side which caused the boat to capsize. It sank within a few minutes. Six bodies were recovered in the afternoon. Eighteen people were rescued and police said between six and 10 persons were missing.

CEASE-FIRE

TEL AVIV — A 90-day cease-fire proposed by the U.S. went into effect in the Middle East at midnight Friday and the guns actually fell silent along the Suez Canal 45 minutes ahead of time, an Israeli spokesman reported. The last incident along the Canal was an artillery duel that ended at 11:15 p.m. after the Egyptians fired "several" shells at Israeli positions and the fire was returned, the spokesman said.

In Cairo military spokesmen said the cease-fire was "implemented" at 1 a.m. They did not explain the discrepancy with either the Israeli account or the agreed hour of midnight. The cease-fire was announced in Washington by Secretary of State William Rogers, who had urged a 90-day halt in the fighting and negotiations for an end to the war under auspices of U.N. mediator Gunnar Jarring. Egypt, Jordan and Israel all accepted, but Arab guerrillas said they would keep fighting.

Rogers issued a statement saying he welcomed the start of the cease-fire and hoped it would "advance the prospects for a just and lasting peace in the Middle East." At the United Nations Secretary General U Thant promptly reported to the Security Council that Jarring had already secured from the three nations an agreement to send representatives for talks. Diplomatic sources said he would transfer his headquarters to Nicosia, Cyprus, and hoped to hold talks at the foreign ministers' level there.

U.S. Sues Texas Over School Desegregation

WASHINGTON — The Nixon Administration sued the state of Texas and 26 individual Texas school districts Friday, asking for court orders dismantling separate educational systems for whites and non-whites. The action is calculated to force a conversion to unitary school systems for the 292,666 black, Mexican-American and white students involved by the fall opening of classes. Separate suits naming the Texas Education Agency and all segregated school systems within each of four federal judicial districts were filed by the Justice Department in U.S. District courts in Tyler, Dallas, Houston and Austin. The Texas suits brings to 94 the number of Southern school districts taken to court by the Administration since July, when efforts to seek voluntary desegregation were given up in favor of court action in most of the South.

Nerve Gas Rockets Loaded on Trains

ANNISTON, Ala. — Nearly 13,000 nerve gas rockets destined for an Atlantic burial ground were loaded aboard two trains Friday for a slow, cautious trip that will involve helicopters, special communications cars and caged rabbits. One 46-car train was loaded at the Anniston Army arsenal and another 24-car shipment was readied at Bluegrass Army depot near Richmond, Ky. The trains, traveling at 35 m.p.h., will set out Monday along a classified route. They will make their way to Sunny Point, N.C., where the rockets will be loaded aboard an old ship hulk, towed 282 miles off Cape Kennedy and sunk in 16,000 feet of water. "If the rabbits start twitching and die, we will know that leaks have developed," an officer said.

Fairness Doctrine Excludes Automobiles

WASHINGTON — The fairness doctrine applying to cigarette advertising over the air does not extend to automobiles and other machines that add to air pollution, the Federal Communications Commission said in a decision announced Friday. Ruling on a complaint involving television station WNBC-TV, New York, the commission said its fairness doctrine applies to cigarettes because the federal government has held that the smoking of cigarettes is a health hazard and therefore antismoking announcements are in the public interest. But, the FCC said, the government is not urging people to protect their health by stopping the purchase of gasoline, automobiles, detergents and other items.

Solon Calls Car, Truck Prices Shocking

WASHINGTON — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., told his colleagues Friday recently announced increases in car and truck prices are "not only shocking but incomprehensible at this time." Proxmire, vice chairman of the Senate House Economic Committee, called on President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, to investigate the increases. The senator said that the hikes seem to provide "a green light go-ahead to auto workers in their current wage negotiations. It strikes me as a clear-cut attempt to resolve a labor-management difference by taking it out on the consumer's hide." Proxmire singled out the 5 to 6 per cent boost announced by Ford on its 1971 model cars and trucks and a 5 per cent hike posted by Chrysler on trucks.

Economic Advisers Cite Inflation Causes

WASHINGTON — The President's Council of Economic Advisers said Friday that increases in construction industry wages and in the cost of power, fuels, cigarettes and public transportation had a strong inflationary impact on the economy in the first half of 1970. The council reported to the National Commission on Productivity, which Nixon appointed June 17 to focus public attention on wage and price increases that are out of line.

Enriched Cereals Enjoying a Miniboom

WASHINGTON — The controversy over the nutritional value of breakfast cereals may not be stopping Johnny from spooning his daily quota but it appears to be causing a miniboom for enriched cereal products. A spot check of some supermarkets in various sections of the country shows no letup in purchases of cereal products in the wake of charges that most have little nutritional value. Nutritional crusader Robert Choate, director of last year's White House conference on nutrition and health, listed nine brands of cereal which he said had nutritional merit. This list apparently has made these enriched cereals more appealing to housewives, grocery retailers report.

Bucher Denies Drink Charge

Combined News Services

Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher, skipper of the USS Pueblo, denied Friday a former fellow officer's charge that there was "plenty" of drinking aboard the Pueblo. Bucher did not deny that enlisted men were permitted to gamble on the ship — "Penny ante poker in the mess hall" — but added in an interview: "I have never been on a Navy ship where there wasn't any gambling. It's sort of trite." Bucher is in New York to confer with the Doubleday publishing house to promote his book, "My Story," his description of the capture by the North Koreans. The drinking and gambling allegations were made in San Diego Thursday by Edward Murphy, former executive officer of the Pueblo.

Because of "partying" on the night before the Pueblo's sailing, Murphy contended, explosives and chemicals that could have been used to destroy the ship and classified material before its capture were not put aboard. Murphy also author of a book about the Pueblo, said Bucher tried to impose his work-hard, play-hard philosophy on others. Bucher said the only drinking aboard the ship was for medicinal purposes and on only two occasions. Brandy was issued, according to regulations, to a group of men who had been chipping ice from the ship, he said, and again when a group had been working during a heavy rainstorm to take a man with a broken back off the ship.

President Nixon Friday appointed former Apollo astronaut Frank Borman as his personal representative to tour the world seeking the humane treatment and earliest possible release of American prisoners of war in Southeast Asia. Borman, who commanded the Apollo 8 spacecraft on the first manned orbit of the moon in December, 1968, and who is now an Eastern Air Lines executive, will leave Monday for Moscow, the first stop on his 11-nation tour.

SUFFRAGETTE

Elsie Hill, 86, a pioneer in the fight for woman suffrage in the U.S., who once went to jail for her beliefs, died Friday in her Norwalk, Conn. home after a heart attack. Miss Hill was graduated from Vassar College in 1906. The suffragettes scored their victory in 1920 when the Constitution was amended to give women the vote. The next year Miss Hill became national chairman of the Women's Party, a group that had fought for the amendment.

"I got some rough treatment and was beaten up in public in a mock trial by six soldiers," Watt said.

L.B. Loses 15 Ships, $16-Million Payroll

By BUCK LANIER
Military Editor

Navy cutbacks announced Friday in Washington trimmed 15 warships from the harbor and $16 million from the Long Beach economy.

The total Navy slash was 55 vessels, attributed to a "winding down of the Vietnam war."

In terms of Navy personnel, Long Beach loses 223 officers and 3,841 enlisted men and their families and the payrolls that go with them.

The Navy announcement said some of the ships in the cutback would be retired, others mothballed or scrapped, and some might be sold to other nations. The reductions will be effected in "five or six months."

Early in 1971 Long Beach will lose three more ships, the destroyers Eversole, O'Brien and Henderson.

Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Long Beach, said in Washington Friday night that the major fleet cutbacks were "the inevitable result of the winding down of the Vietnam War."

Hosmer noted that San Diego was hit harder personnel-wise than Long Beach. The nation's second largest naval base will lose 12 ships and 5,672 men. The ships include the attack carrier Bon Homme Richard and the heavy cruiser St. Paul.

This year has been the bleakest in Long Beach's history. To date, 37 ships have been retired and Destroyer Squadron 3's eight ships were re-assigned to San Diego.

Long Beach's cutbacks to date will bring the city's warship count down to 85. The high mark was 130 in August 1967.

"The new reductions are not unexpected, according to announced plans for the Pacific Fleet," Hosmer said. "The Navy said it would continue to reduce the fleet as the war winds down."

Hosmer, a rear admiral in the Naval Reserve, said Friday's round of cutbacks would complete the reductions for this year and at least the first several months of 1971.

The announcement came on the heels of a mid-week exclusive story by the I.P.T. that a seven-ship cutback was due and "more to come."

There are now 736 ships on the line compared with a fleet of 904 before the budget squeeze began 20 months ago.

The average of the ships to be taken out of service is 23.

The 15 Long Beach ships are the destroyer tender Isle Royale; destroyers Walke, Cunningham, Mansfield, Collett, Fichteler, Isbell, Benner; oilers Platte, Chemung; fumine countermeasures ship Caiskill; and ocean minesweepers Lucid, Prime, Acme, Advance.

Platte is the oldest ship in the Navy.

The Bon Homme Richard was scheduled to begin a $10-million overhaul conversion in the Long Beach Naval Shipyard this fall but this job is lost to Adm. Monroe Hart's facility now.

BUT LESS SEVERE 7th Smog Alert Expected Today

By GILBERT BAILEY
Contributing Editor

A thick mixture of smog settled over the Los Angeles basin Friday as the pollutant-trapping inversion layer dropped to 300 feet.

The Los Angeles Air Pollution Control District called its sixth smog alert this year and its second in two days after ozone readings — that part of smog which causes eye irritation — soared to .61 parts per million parts of air (ppm), six times greater than the adverse level in the East San Gabriel Valley.

And district officials warned that another smog alert can be expected today. However, lower weekend travel may lower smog levels — not below alert stage, but below Friday's peaks.

The smog pattern and variety of poisonous chemicals in the air varied from place to place.

Long Beach did not have as heavy a concentration of ozone, but its sulphur dioxide level peaked at .30 ppm Friday. Even so, that was considerable drop from a reported level of .70 ppm Thursday, a level which city health officials warned could cause problems for the elderly and for those with lung diseases.

The ozone reading in Long Beach was .13 ppm, above the state standard of .10. In Orange County the ozone level was .29, above the central Los Angeles reading of .25.

Visibility was cut to seven miles in Long Beach at 4 p.m. and to six miles in Orange County.

Advanced Desalting Plant for Huntington Beach

A $4-million experimental desalting plant — originally planned for San Diego — will be built in Huntington Beach, Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel announced Friday.

The plant will be constructed on a site near the Santa Ana River under an agreement with the Orange County Water District. The district is providing the site, utilities, buildings and other facilities.

The experimental plant will combine two existing desalting processes — the vertical tube evaporator (VTE) and multi-stage flash (MSF).

The Office of Saline Water, which is funding the plant, changed the site to Orange County because

San Diego lacked available land.

Construction is expected to start by June 1971, Hickel said.

Air West to End L.B., L.A. Flight

Air West Friday was given authorization by the Civil Aeronautics Board to discontinue service to Long Beach Airport.

The CAB said the airline has been operating a 40-seat F-27 aircraft on one round-trip a day between Long Beach and International Airport, with an average load of about 2 per cent of capacity.

The service to Long Beach has generated an average of less than one passenger a flight, the CAB said, and it is unlikely a reasonable volume can be attained.

Father, Son Crushed by Tractor

VENTURA (AP) — A bride-to-be looked on helplessly as her fiance and his father rode an out-of-control tractor to their death down a hillside, officials said Friday.

The victims were crushed under the weight of the 50,000-pound tractor after it lurched backward into a 40-foot gravel pit.

Killed outright was the father, L. L. Mead, 46. The son, Michael Mead, 17, died four hours later in a hospital. They had been en route for work in building a roadway.

Officials say the tractor apparently malfunctioned, stopping its forward progress. Accompanying the victims in a car was the son's fiance, Diana Cook.

PUBLIC VOTE OK'D ON NEW L.A. CHARTER

The Los Angeles City Council voted 12-3 Friday to put what proponents term a streamlined city charter before the voters.

Mayor Sam Yorly shook hands with those in favor after the vote. Opponents contended the plan wasn't simply streamlining but adopting a whole new form of city government.

Under the proposal the mayor would be called the city's "executive officer" and the council would be designated as the governing body as at present. Numerous department changes also are proposed.

The plan may go on the November ballot.

Negotiate on Reagan Tax Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An easing in the blockade against Gov. Ronald Reagan's $1-billion tax revision program appeared Friday when Democrats and Republicans hinted negotiations may be initiated.

The Administration so far has been unable to crack the solid bloc of 12 Democrats and one Republican who oppose the massive reshuffle. The proposal was stalled in the Senate, one vote shy of passage, 11 days ago.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, chief sponsor of the plan, approached Senate Democratic Leader George Moscone and asked if an amendment to the proposal would make it palatable to opponents.

Bagley said he was willing to consider amendments that would give renters a greater tax break, one of the main provisions of a rival Democratic tax revision package.

Moscone told a reporter later "I'm going to think about it over the weekend." He said he declined to commit himself to any compromise.

ASKED WHAT he would do if a compromise proposal was offered by Democrats next week, Bagley replied:

"I'm certainly willing to look at it."

He said, however, that he had solicited compromise proposals before, but had received none from the opponents.

Moscone said he was thinking about "two things that would sweeten the package."

"The San Francisco law-maker said that one would give all renters a tax break regardless of their income. Under Reagan's program, renters would get a $50 state income tax credit, but persons who pay no income tax would get no such credit even though they paid rent."

Moscone also said he wanted "an across-the-board increase in the homeowners' property tax exemption." He did not assign a specific figure.

In the Reagan package, the homeowners' exemption would jump from $750 to $1,000 plus 20 per cent of the assessed valuation.

Assessor Sees 'Chaos' in Tax Shift

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Los Angeles County's tax assessor says passage of Governor Ronald Reagan's tax-shift package now would trigger fiscal chaos and result in angry taxpayers.

Philip E. Watson, county assessor, recommended the tax-reform bills be amended to become effective in 1971.

It would cost millions of dollars to recompute and reprint second installment tax bills if the governor's plan is approved now, he said. The bill instructs taxpayers to pay only the first half of their property taxes, with the relief coming in the second installment.

"In addition to creating utter chaos in the assessors', auditors' and tax collectors' offices, and burdening local taxpayers with many millions of dollars in expense to recompute and reprint the second installments of the tax bills, I can foresee a serious impairment to the cash flow of many local taxing agencies when they do not receive the anticipated payments of both installments in December as they have in the past," Watson said in an Aug. 4 letter to Reagan. The letter was also released to legislators and the press.

SEES FRIEND LED TO DEATH

Lensman Captures Courthouse Terror

Associated Press
"You take all the pictures you want. We are the revolutionaries," a Negro gunman told photographer Jim Kean, waving two revolvers in Kean's face.
That is how Kean, longtime cameraman for the San Rafael Independent-Journal, produced the spectacular series of pictures of the courthouse breakout and gun battle Friday that took the lives of his friend, Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley, and three Negro gunmen.
Kean and the slain judge grew up together in San Rafael. Their mothers also were lifelong friends.
Kean said he heard on his car radio that there was some trouble at the court house.
As he walked in, the gunman confronted him and led him to where another Negro was holding a woman juror by the neck with a gun at her head.
"I proceeded to take pictures," Kean related.
He caught the whole deadly drama and, unmolested, returned to the paper and developed his negatives.
Recalling his photographic feat, Kean said, "On a hunch, I rushed to the court chambers when I reached the Civic Center. I went around a corner and there was this guy with two guns.

"Then I saw another man with his arm around the neck of this woman.
"Another down the hall with a carbine was covering several policemen and disarming them."
Kean said the judge was led past him to the press room, "where they may have wanted to make some announcement because they were yelling to me: 'We want the Soledad brothers freed by 12 o'clock.'"
That was a reference to three black convicts awaiting trial for beating a white guard to death at Soledad state prison shortly after another white guard had shot three black prisoners to death during a racial brawl.
Another Soledad guard has since been stabbed to death, but no formal charges have been filed in that incident.
Another Independent-Journal photographer, Roger Bockrath, said he was downstairs in a parking lot when the judge was led to a van.
"I was shooting from behind a high-way patrol car as one of them had a gun against the judge's neck," he said. "One of them yelled for me to leave. I left, but not before I had gotten the pictures."

COURTROOM 'CASED' THURSDAY

SAN RAFAEL (UPI) — The bailiff to slain Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley said one of the men in Friday's fatal escape-shootout apparently

"cased" the courtroom a day earlier.
Deputy Sheriff Jim Lane described the young man only as a "young, Negro." He said the suspect came to Haley's courtroom on Thursday and asked where convict James D. McClain would go on trial for assaulting a San Quentin guard.

"fuzzy-haired young black" walked into the courtroom wearing a wind-breaker and carrying a black satchel.
Haley's bailiff, James Lane, said he recognized the man because he had been in the courtroom the day before asking where McClain would be tried.
Lane decided to ask him to step outside and be searched.
The man stood up, brandishing a 32-caliber revolver. "This is it," Lane quoted him as saying. "I've got an automatic weapon. Everybody freeze."

THE INTRUDER handed an automatic carbine from his windbreaker to McClain and tossed what appeared to be dynamite to Magee. Court officials unshackled both at gunpoint.
McClain stood up, gun in hand, and told the jury, "I have been unjustly accused. I want to be a free man."
Magee then went down the hall and forced a guard to free Christmas and two other convicts. Mark A. Cisneros, 23, and Willie Reddicks, 33, from a holding cell where they were waiting to testify.

On the way back, he accosted a young couple with a baby in a corridor and forced them into Haley's courtroom. Christmas joined the kidnappers and the four coolly discussed their next move.
Reddicks and Cisneros did not take part, police said.
"McClain said, 'Women are too slow. The bailiff is cool, and we don't want the baby,'" Lane said.
They decided to take the judge, the two women and Thomas.

MEANWHILE, a guard had managed to slip out of the courtroom unobserved and a cordon of deputy sheriffs and San Quentin guards formed outside the doors and surrounded the modernistic, pink and blue civic center.

Binding a shotgun against the judge's head with adhesive tape, the convicts assembled the hostages and pushed them outside.
"Do what they tell you to do," Judge Haley told the terrified women. "Mr. McClain said there won't be any trouble."
The other occupants of the courtroom were tied

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan Friday ordered an "immediate investigation" into the kidnapping of four persons from a courtroom and the fatal shooting of Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley and three of his abductors.
up and told to lie face down on the floor.
"I just prayed," Lane said. Frank Kirby, Haley's 63-year-old clerk, said he lay there saying to himself over and over, "this isn't happening, it can't be."
The four kidnappers and their four hostages moved out of the courtroom — and into a corridor filled with armed officers.

HOLDING the shotgun to Haley's head, they waited 10 minutes, while the helpless officers watched. At one point the gunmen summoned reporters and photographers from the courthouse pressroom and ordered photographers to take pictures.
"You take all the pictures you want," one kidnapper told photographer Jim Kean of the San Rafael Independent-Journal. "We are the revolutionaries."

"When they came out they had Judge Haley in the lead with a gun at his back," said Art Wiggins, 45, a deputy sheriff. "I saw at least one woman. Behind the whole party was this fuzzy-haired black who had brought the weapons into the courtroom.

"Drop it or they all die right here!" they yelled at me.
"I raised my shotgun but I was afraid to fire because I might hit the hostages."
An elevator arrived and the kidnappers forced the hostages into it. On the ground floor, they emerged from the vaulted building, backed across 300 yards in the parking lot and climbed into a yellow rental car van, apparently parked there for the escape.

THE DRAMATIC finale of the tragedy was played out in the parking lot as dozens of horrified county employees watched from the building.
"I could recognize Judge Haley because he still had his robe on and I could see the women," said County Clerk George Gross. "Two men who appeared to be armed with machine guns got into the vehicle and drove through the archway."
"The van got about 100 yards before it was confronted by 25 or 30 sheriff's officers, San Rafael police, San Quentin guards and California Highway Patrolmen."

Craig Steen, 23, a county elections employee, said he heard two muffled shots — "like they were inside the van." A hail of police gunfire followed.
"The police rushed up and opened the back of the van," Steen said. "One girl staggered out."
The judge, half his head blown off, was crumpled in his black robes inside the van. McClain, Christmas and their accomplice were found dead inside.

Thomas and Magee lay bleeding inside.
Police checked the briefcase but said it contained road flares instead of dynamite.

BUT TOTAL HITCH UP Active Duty Cut for ROTC Men

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army Friday drastically shortened active duty required of about half the college ROTC graduates going into service this fiscal year.

The move affects about 7,500 young men who will be required to serve only a three-to six-month active duty training tour, instead of two years in uniform, before being released to the National Guard or Ready Reserve.

The Army says the move results from a reduction in the total number of Army officers needed in the fiscal year ending next June 30.

The ROTC action reflects the progressive cut-back in the overall size of the armed forces as the United States withdraws gradually from the Vietnam war.

While ROTC graduates affected by the move will have a shorter active duty tour, their total military obligation — including guard or reserve drills — will be extended two years.
An ROTC graduate who serves the normal two-year active duty tour after college graduation has a remaining obligation of three years in the ready reserve and one year in the standby reserve — a total of six years.

However, the Army said those men who are excused from the two-year active duty tour and are required to pass only three to six months on active duty will have a Ready Reserve obligation for a total of eight years.

SNOW WHITE CAN COME OUT NOW

Disneyland was as quiet as a Mickey Mouse Friday.

The yuppie invaders of Thursday had been routed by the police and park security officers, and gentler fantasies reigned in the vast Anaheim amusement park.

Donald Duck, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs breathed easier as park security personnel monitored the gates and subjected long-haired youths seeking admission to a "really tough" grooming standard.

Jack Lindquist, Disneyland marketing director, put it on the line for the yuppies and any would-be camp followers:
"We're taking a longer and harder look at the total person, grooming attitude and behavior," Lindquist said.

"If it is a questionable group, belligerent or otherwise, who want in we will talk to them and refuse admission."
"We have longhairs in the park today, but they are clean and neat and there to have a good time. Our attendance is up significantly over yesterday."

The shift in park policy, Lindquist said, is not aimed at penalizing long-haired youth. He said that while grooming would be the initial monitor of allowing entrance, conversation with the heavy-manned young people would be the final gauge.

LINDA TO GO FREE

disappeared. An interview with the Dallas, Tex., native, appeared in Friday's Independent, Press-Telegram, giving the first indication that the author of "Yana the Witch," a story of his travels with Mrs. Kasabian, was in town.

The youth, despite teams of investigators sent to various spots in the metropolitan area where he might be, Friday night was still free — a feeling Mrs. Kasabian could experience Monday if the judge approves the defense motion for immediate immunity.

Deputy Dis. Attny. Vincent Bugliosi said the girl could choose to remain in the confines of Sybil Brand Institute for Women, for her own safety, or could live in a hotel. He indicated she would have police protection, however.

Also "freed" Friday was juror Walter Vitzelio, a retired security guard, who had complained of physical problems as well as family problems during his jury duty. He was excused to return to his family, and an alternate juror, Larry Sheely, was selected by lot to replace him as juror number 11.

EARLIER Friday, the courtroom again echoed with the sobs of Mrs. Kasabian as she viewed more pictures of the slaughter at the Tate home.
"Oh, God!" she sobbed, her face contorted in horror, as she looked at a color photograph of one of the victims, Voltyck Frykowski, the Polish playboy friend of Miss Tate's husband, Roman Polanski.

Then she turned to face her former hippie boss and the three girl "followers" on trial: "How could you do that?" she gasped.
The girl has almost become hysterical each time she has talked of the actual murders or viewed photographs, but this time, despite her tears, defense attorney Irving Kanarek continued his questioning.

"You didn't cry when you saw this man bleeding at the door of the house," Kanarek said. "Why are you crying now, Mrs. Kasabian?"
"I'm crying because I just can't believe it. I can't believe that they'd do it."

DENYING that she had participated in the slaughter, she almost shouted into the microphone: "I know it's not in me to do such an animalistic thing . . . I just know I didn't do it, Mr. Kanarek."

First shown a picture of coffee heiress Abigail Folger's body lying on the lawn of the Tate home, white nightgown bloodied and torn, the girl glanced at it briefly, grimaced and then looked away.

When she was shown the picture of Frykowski, she broke down completely, grabbing for tissues which had been left at the witness stand for her.

Earlier she had testified that she started running to the house when she heard the screams, but stopped short when she saw Frykowski at the door.

"He stood at a post for a minute, then he fell into the bushes," she said, still sobbing. "I knew for sure what was happening at that point. I just said, 'Oh God, I'm so sorry.' I was praying to God. Everything just stood still. I just couldn't do anything . . ."

UNMOVED by her prayers, Kanarek asked if she had prayed for Steven Parent, the 18-year-old casual visitor at the Tate home, when she saw him shot four times in the head.
"It didn't seem real," she answered.

Later she said she ran down the hill leading from the actress' home and lay on the ground for a few minutes, "thinking . . . trying to get my thoughts together."

Her first thought, she said, "was to go to the police and get help."

But she didn't. She said she had not gone to the police from the time of the murders until her arrest four months later because she was "pregnant — had my baby with me — and didn't know how to go about it."

Finally she added: "I thought if I came forward they would say I was crazy, like they're trying to say now. I guess I was thinking of myself."

HER HANDS calmly folded in her lap when she wasn't in tears, the girl claimed she "wasn't under the influence of drugs (when she went to the murder houses) 'but was under the influence of Charlie.'"

Then in a litany of admissions she said:

"I've admitted to running away, going around the house, throwing the guns and knives away. I've admitted to all of this and I take the responsibility for it. But I don't admit killing those people because I didn't kill them."

Questioned about the book that is being written about her life, Mrs. Kasabian said she "didn't care about the money."

"I'm doing it to pay my attorneys — it doesn't matter if I have money or not."

Drug Trial Escapee Rearrested in L.B.

Gordon Lamar Gaskins, the narcotics case defendant who disappeared in the midst of his trial in Superior Court in Long Beach last week, was back in custody Friday.

Police arrested him about 3:10 a.m. at the corner of Ocean and Long Beach boulevards. They said he was intoxicated.

About 11 a.m., he was brought before Judge Carroll M. Dummum, who set his bail at $10,000 and set a new trial date of Aug. 11.

It will be the third time

Avast! (That Means Stop Digging) Treasure Found

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Maritime Editor

The I. P.T. Sea Festival $1,000 Treasure has been found!

Before it was unearthed at 2:45 p.m. Friday, several thousand Sea Festival Spectacular viewers had tromped on it.

Several thousand more hunted for it.

But only one man found it.

He was Chief M. Sgt. Elmer P. Phillips, stationed at McClellan Air Force Base, Sacramento.

The treasure, a gold painted wooden box the size of a half loaf of sandwich bread, was found buried three feet deep in the sandy beach below the Museum of Art.

The 53-year old sergeant came to Long Beach to visit his wife's sister, Mrs. Elsa Blackburn, 2609 E. First. St. Phillips, his wife and three grown sons had intended to return to their North Highlands home earlier this week.

MRS. BLACKBURN encouraged the Phillips to extend their stay and join the treasure hunt.

The eldest of the three sons, Dennis, 25, began deciphering Sunday's first Treasure Hunt clue. He searched and probed along the beach each day. He began to dig for the treasure at 2 a.m. Friday.

At 4 a.m. a rumor spread along the beach like a tidal wave: "The treasure had been found!"

Dennis stopped digging.

The "found treasure" was exposed as a hoax.

Dennis resumed digging about 10 a.m. and about 1:30 p.m. decided to break for lunch. His father, his two brothers, Rodney, 21, and Gary, 18, and his mother dug while the elder son lunched.

Digging deeper in a trench dug by others and abandoned as sterile, Sgt. Phillips' shovel struck the treasure chest.

He plans a six-way split of the prize.

"Now we can all go to Disneyland," said the happy Air Force sergeant.

For treasure hunters not so lucky, Blackpatch the Pirate had a consolation prize — an explanation of his clues.

Seekers were not to cross private land nor dig in the cemetery. Clues were among the news columns of the I. P.T. not among the pillars of the building.

The treasure was near a place, 19th Place. Go like falling water — down. If a girl was bikini clad she'd like to be on the beach.

The treasure was a wood box, so electronic metal detectors were no good. Seekers had to reach down into a hole, not up, but down along zee beach.

The treasure was not close to either the arena or the marina. The sandy beach is soft, not hard like the bluff.

The bounty was at a tip of a yard, three feet deep!

Belmont Pier is a road on piling at the end of which fishing poles bend. Lifeguards in red trunks and driving red Jeeps patrol the beach. From where it was hidden it would be a long walk to the Arena, where people pay to shout and gawk at wrestlers, roller derbies, rodeos, etc.

LAMPS IN THE high windows of the Galaxy Towers glow like stars. Alpha, Bravo, Charlie, Delta are the four offshore oil islands. Nearby is a refreshment stand selling ice cream which would melt in the hot sun.

Litter there was on the beach and on the bluff. The specific (Pacific) Holiday apartments was to the west. Seekers should not stray far outside the four towers on the oil islands.

Automobiles have big power plants — too big, some claim! They are parked diagonally, on the slant, in the parking lot near which bathers worship Ra, the Egyptian sun god. The beach and lot are open 24 hours and well lighted after dark.

The treasure was below the Museum of Art where hang mighty fine pictures. You could coast down Junipero Avenue in a car or on a skate board but you would be puffing if you walked up. Also, the zigzag stairway would be a breeze coming down, but after climbing up you would be puffing.

BACK AWAY FROM the water and over the low concrete wall (hedge) seekers should have burrowed (dug) between the parking lot and the high bluff.

A cluster of nine palm trees (silent sentries) witnessed Blackpatch hiding the treasure nearly two weeks ago. The concrete stairway has 70 steps. The treasure was toward the parking lot from the lowest landing (slab).

Had the $1,000 treasure not been found this would have been today's final clue:

Heels 'gainst crete (concrete) base, take ye ten paces. Then by three dig down to the place.

When it's found make shouts and hollers, "Look, I've found a thousand dollars!"

Thieves Rifle Car

Kenneth L. Smith, 2697 E. 56th Way, told Long Beach police Friday that thieves forced open the trunk of his car while it was parked near his home and took a set of golf clubs and car parts valued at $315.

Joseph P. McNamara, 59, executive vice president of North American Rockwell's Space Division at Downey since September 1967, was elected president Friday at a meeting of the company's board of directors in Ashtabula, Ohio.

McNamara, of 9117 Florence Ave., Downey, succeeds William B. Bergen, who was elected corporate vice president and group vice president-aerospace and systems. Bergen had been president of the Space Division for more than three years.

He will report directly to Robert Anderson, corporate president. Anderson said the move will permit him to devote more time to overall corporate responsibilities.

McNamara served seven years as vice president and general manager of the Liquid Rocket Division of the company's Rocketdyne Division before going to the Space Division.

"We are fortunate to have a veteran like McNamara to replace Bergen at a time when the Space Division is involved in the Apollo program and in initial phases of the major aerospace programs of the next decade," Anderson said.

McNamara joined the parent company at its World War II plant in Kansas City in April, 1943, as a project construction engineer. He later was plant engineer for the firm's missiles and controls equipment operations at Downey.

A native of Bakersfield, he was graduated from UC Berkeley in 1936 with a degree in engineering.

MOTORCYCLE TRAIL

Developers Eye Former Anaheim Dump Site

By BOB GEIVET
Staff Writer

An "isolated but accessible" acreage which has been covered with weeds for years suddenly has become important to at least three potential buyers, including the city of Anaheim and Orange County.

The property, between the Riverside Freeway and the Santa Fe Railway tracks at Dowling Street, east of Anaheim, was once a 20-acre county operated dump.

ANAHEIM CITY Manager Keith Murdoch disclosed that his city would like it for a park, mostly for motorcyclists.

He said another 20 acres can be added to the property because owners of adjacent lands would like to sell.

A motorcycle distributor wants to promote it for riding trails.

Orange County Sheriff James A. Musick said it should be used for a police pistol range and peace officers' training academy because the present 4-acre site at Katella Road and the Santa Ana River is too small. It could also be used for firemen's training, he said.

But Aviation Director Robert E. Bresnahan said the county will be missing a bet if it doesn't acquire the land for use by STOL (short takeoff and landing) craft.

Bresnahan pointed out the county "is in dire need of sites for airports," and the property would be ideal for use as a small metropolis.

Starr Ranch Awaits Buyer, Development

Officials of Recreation Environments, Inc., of Newport Beach said Friday that the company seeks a buyer who will develop the Starr Ranch near San Juan Capistrano into a park.

Edwin D. Ettinger, chairman of the board of Recreation Environments, disclosed that the bankrupt Penn Central Corp. and its wholly-owned subsidiary, Great Southwest Corp., which owns Ettinger's firm, wants to sell.

MEANWHILE, the Orange County Planning Commission approved plans of Recreation Envornments for developing the 10,144-acre ranch.

Ettinger said that his board is discussing the acquisition of REI "with a number of major companies," and that he is confident that "these discussions will lead to a new affiliation very shortly."

The company bought the Starr Ranch for $11 million and recently announced plans to develop most of its acreage in Bell Canyon into a privately operated public park.

Ettinger's firm operates the 5,000-acre Cota de Caza park in Trabuco Canyon, adjacent to the Starr Ranch.

Its plans for the Starr Ranch included 450 camper-trailer sites, 4,000 picnic sites, zoo, livery stable, motorbike trails, miniature golf, fishing and swimming.

Black Radio Studio Gets Move OK'd

From Our National Bureau
WASHINGTON — The Federal Communications Commission Friday granted the only Negro licensee of a radio station in California the authority to relocate his main studio from Long Beach to Los Angeles.

In its decision approving the application by John Lamar Hill, owner of station KPLH, the commission noted that the licensee intended to serve 500,000 Negroes living within the station's range and his statement that this would improve race relations in the area.

In its grant, the commission said that the Long Beach identification was to be continued and emphasized that the action does not affect the licensee's primary obligation to the city.

Stolen from Haugar

Burglars entered an unlocked hangar at Long Beach Airport and removed a 350-pound Continental airplane engine valued at $10,000, officials of Golden West Airlines told Long Beach Police Friday.

MOZLEY RETIRES AFTER 45 YEARS

Don S. Mozley, tax collector for Orange County since 1940, is going on a vacation — and will retire Sept. 1 to do it.

At 72, Mozley is the oldest county employee and has the longest record of continuous service: 45 years.

He started with the county in 1925 as a stenographer in the sheriff's civil division because he was a good typist. Five years later he joined the tax collector's office, was elected head of the office in 1940 and has been reelected regularly since—almost always without opposition.

He and his wife of 50 years plan an extended tour of Canada for their vacation. He'll be away on his retirement day Sept. 1, and said he wants it that way.

Dorothy Powell, for years his chief assistant in the office, will be acting tax collector until next January, when the new collector who will be chosen in the Nov. 3 general election takes over.

Forty Picket in Lakewood for Chavez

Forty pickets marched in sympathy with the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee Friday outside the Lakewood offices of Purex Corp., 5101 S. Clark Ave.

The protest was against the reported firing of 150 field workers at the firm's Salinas Valley facility who refused to join the Teamsters Union.

Eldon Miller, public relations director of Purex in Lakewood, said his company does have a contract with the Teamsters Union, but declined further comment until the firm issues a formal statement.

MINISTER OF THE YEAR

Rev. J. Boyd Rites Set Monday

Services will be held at 11 a.m. Monday in Grant Chapel African Methodist Episcopal Church for Rev. Dr. Jesse L. Boyd Sr., former pastor of the church and community leader. Dr. Boyd, 70, died Thursday of cancer in Los Alamitos Hospital.

Retiring last November because of ill health, he was honored in January as area "Minister of the Year" at the Council of Churches Spotlight Awards Banquet.

He was a native of St. Louis, educated at Capital University of Columbus, Ohio, Wilberforce University and Payne Theological Seminary of Ohio, and pastored churches in Missouri, Oregon and Arizona before coming to the Long Beach church eight years ago.

An indefatigable worker for civil rights and better relations between the races, Dr. Boyd was co-organizer with a white Methodist minister of the area's first sustained black-white dialogue. In 1966 he was honored as Man of the Year at the California Community Center, and served as first vice president of the area Council of Churches in 1969.

Rev. Don Lindblom, executive secretary of the council, paid this tribute Friday: "Certainly Dr. Boyd was one of the pioneer black church leaders; he led his own church into full and meaningful participation in the community. He made an outstanding contribution to religious life and community betterment."

Dr. Boyd is survived by his wife, Olga; a son, Rev. Jesse L. Boyd Jr. of Pasadena; a daughter, Mrs. Virlyn McTeiley of Altadena, and five grandchildren.

The family suggests memorial contributions to either the American Cancer Society or the Pauline Whitfield Scholarship Foundation at Grant Chapel Church.

Harris Colonial Mortuary is in charge of funeral arrangements.

DR. JESSE BOYD

Pioneer's Kin Rites Set Today

Funeral was held today for a 91-year-old descendant of a pioneer family which once owned large sections of Orange County.

Arthur B. Yorba, the great-grandson of a sergeant in the 1769 Portola expedition which helped open up California to Spanish settlement, died Wednesday at a Los Angeles convalescent hospital.

Yorba's grandfather, Don Bernardo Yorba, once owned four Spanish ranches totalling 168,000 acres in Orange County.

THE ORANGE County community of Yorba Linda, President Nixon's birthplace, was named after the Yorba family.

Arthur Yorba himself served as a clerk of the Los Angeles Superior Court for 50 years. Requiem Mass for Yorba was set today at 11 a.m. at the chapel of Calvary Mausoleum, Los Angeles.

Chace Reminds Servicemen of Absentee Vote

Friends and relatives should remind overseas servicemen that they can register to vote and should request an absentee ballot for the Nov. 3 election, County Supervisor Burton W. Chace said today.

To obtain absentee ballots, Chace said, servicemen should request application forms from the elections services officers in their commands.

Applications should be mailed to the County Registrar, 808 N. Spring St., Los Angeles, no later than Oct. 27.

Chace also noted that literacy requirements have been removed for all potential voters.

Children's Choir

A half dozen young people have formed a "children's choir" which sings at the 9:30 a.m. Mass every Sunday at St. Mary's Hospital Chapel.

Welcome, Brethren Delegates; How to Treat New Pastor; Movies P.S.

By LES RODNEY

WELCOME TO Long Beach, out-of-town delegates to the annual convention of the National Fellowship of Brethren Churches, being conducted at one of our city's hand-somest churches, First Brethren, at 36th and Linden.

While the fellowship is one of the smaller groupings nationally, there is nothing small about it in spirit and in mission work. And there is nothing small about it in size either in these parts!

Just for instance, North Long Beach Brethren (61st and Orange) recently concluded a two week vacation Bible school which reached a new area high of 867 children attending, plus 200 workers.

Never afraid to innovate to increase its outreach, the lively church this year added a junior high age vacation Bible school, run separately from the elementary Bible school. It averaged 63 youngsters in this first-time bracket. For the "program night" of the combined school, the 110-seat sanctuary was packed.

STEVE RAFFERTY, youth director at First Congregational, who worked with the church's fine day camp for neighborhood youngsters, tells that a picture we took of the campers preparing the lunch in the church kitchen was sent to one of the girl's father — in Vietnam.

THE ANNUAL listing of the largest Sunday Schools in the country by Christian Life magazine finds Baptists, as usual, sweeping top honors in attendance. First nine are Baptist, headed for the third straight year by Akron, (Ohio) Baptist Temple, which is affiliated with the young Baptist Bible Fellowship. The church had an astonishing weekly Sunday School attendance of 5,801, a gain of 39 over last year. There's a volunteer school staff of 800, with 20 full time employees. The school transports 640 pupils in 19 buses.

Second is the mammoth First Baptist Church of Dallas, Texas, which has a budget of more than $2.5 million, pastored by Rev. Dr. W. A. Criswell, recently the controversial president of the Southern Baptist Convention.

In the listing of the 75 largest church Sunday Schools, Long Beach gets in with 56th ranked First Baptist of Lakewood, with a weekly attendance of 1,385. Other area churches listed are Garden Grove Community, 18th, and Central Baptist of Anaheim, 10th.

There are some Christian educators who are not all that enamored of the emphasis on numbers and bigness. Some years ago, however, the Southern Baptists published an article, "God Is For Numbers." A common phrase in defense of bigness is "We want numbers not so we can count people, but because people count," Dr. G. B. Vick, pastor of Temple Baptist of Detroit, one of the nation's largest, says "listen, heaven is going to be big."

AN ARTICLE entitled "How to Treat a New Minister" by Rev. Morgan P. Noyes, pastor emeritus of Central Presbyterian Church of Montclair, N.J., includes these suggestions:

"Remember that your new minister has just been through a painful experience in leaving a church he loves, and that he is homesick.

"Tell him your name each time you meet him for three months — he is meeting a lot of new people."

"Give him information about sickness or trouble in church families where he can help, he is not a mindreader.

"Realize that he cannot preach helpfully week in and week out unless his congregation helps him protect some time reserved for study and reading.

"Defend the freedom of the pulpit. Don't expect him to say nothing controversial. Ask of him only that he be honest, thoughtful, courageous, with no loyalty above his allegiance to Christ.

"Let him be himself, aware that no one expects him to be a replica of anybody else.

"Look to him as your pastor, entitled to your loyalty, cooperation, understanding and prayers."

THE LONG BEACH

Area Council of Churches will launch an adjunct of its weekday Christian education program this fall in the inner city and poverty areas. It is described as being "designed particularly for multi-racial classes with emphasis upon the contributions of various cultural groups to our religious heritage."

The board of directors approved the program, and authorized the part time employment as supervisor of Rev. Fred Newkirk, former pastor of First Friends Church.

The council asks that all people interested in teaching in its extensive weekday Christian Education program (part of the released time program along with the Roman Catholic and Evangelical groups) contact the council. Classes begin the second week of October, and are held from 2:30 to 3:10 p.m. each school day.

A CONTRACT with the U.S. Department of Labor for $1,329,459 to train more than 700 "hard-core disadvantaged" to work in five Methodist-related hospitals has been signed by the denomination's General Board of Health and Welfare Ministries.

"To the best of our knowledge," says Bishop Paul V. Galloway of Little Rock, Ark., president of the board, "this is the first time a major Protestant denomination has signed such a contract with the federal government, al-

MAY I HAVE A MOMENT OF YOUR TIME?

A young man in New York City committed suicide. In the note he left, he had written, "I am really not needed, not by anybody. No one gives a hang about me. I'm just a peanut in Yankee Stadium, so I'll step on myself once and for all."

Most of us will never even be tempted to thus leap out into eternity, but all of us know the feeling described in that pitiful note. We know frustration, failure, distress, loneliness, disappointment; we know the feeling of being "a peanut in Yankee Stadium."

In such an hour, we begin to understand the blessings of the Gospel, the possibility of being, not that despised peanut, but children of the living God. Paul writes to the Christians in Galatia that they are "sons of God," and to the Christians in Thessalonica that they are "sons of light."

It finally comes down to that, for all of us, either peanuts in Yankee Stadium or children of God. It isn't really a difficult choice to make. The better way is open to us, made possible by the Christ, He who said, "I am the way..."

Sincerely,

Frank M. Kepner, Pastor

LONG BEACH PROJECT VIEWED AS MODEL

Black, White Church Teens Plan Kids Camp Program

A unique project worked out by the young people of two Long Beach churches — one predominately white and the other predominately black — may become a model for similar groups in other urban centers.

An interracial day camp program for children age 8-12 is planned for the week of Aug. 17 through 21, worked out by the combined senior high and college youth of Covenant United Presbyterian Church and First Providence Baptist Church.

An expected group of 100 children will be bussed daily to Irvine Park and camp grounds, allowing both campers and counselors an opportunity to share experiences both of nature and of persons.

The youth of the two congregations, under direction of Mrs. Tinsley and Mrs. Wesley of First Providence, and Rev. McLellan of Covenant, have been meeting regularly to get to know each other and set up plans, including camp programs, fund raising efforts, budgets, menus, etc.

The idea was an outgrowth of the thinking of the young people in each church. Covenant youth, discussing a summer program, decided not to look too far afield such as a New Mexico venture, but to establish a program which would provide a continuing relationship throughout the year.

First Providence had set upon an interracial youth fellowship program, with a goal of uniting people of different races and backgrounds in a dialogue within the church. The programs merged in this effort.

The project is to be funded by donations from the community. No charge of any kind, will be made to the campers. The sponsors ask that contributions be sent to: Summer '70, 607 E. Third St., Long Beach.

though hospitals related to churches have been receiving federal funds for years."

Five-week training is followed by 13 week on-the-job training. "The key advantage of this program," explains the bishop, "is that each of the trainees will be on the hospital payroll at the beginning, and will be guaranteed a continuing job if training is completed satisfactorily. Many other programs train people, but do not carry a job guarantee."

He added: "... at the same time, they will be meeting a chronic need in the hospitals for new service personnel."

LAST WEEK'S interview with Dean F. Thomas Trotter of Claremont School of Theology on whether the movies are inviting a censorship crackdown, drew many responses from readers. Evidently it is a subject of high interest and concern.

Thanks to those, such as Mrs. S. Posthumus, who wrote "the excellent article cleared up many confusing points for me regarding this most controversial subject, and I intend to file it for further reference and use..." And a brief response to two other:

To Rick, who wrote in part: "People's values are upside down when they get so uptight about the human body and loving, and don't give a damn about their kids seeing the real obscenity, which is war and violence that tears the

GOSPEL LADS IN COMPTON CONCERT

In their third year, the Orange County-based Gospel Lads, heard on radio, on the Revival Fires weekly television program, and through two albums on Vibra-Gold label, maintain a busy concert schedule while holding down regular jobs. The popular quartet, stressing old favorites in spirited style, will be featured next Saturday, Aug. 15, at 8 p.m., at the summer gospel concert of Rosewood Christian Church, 4323 E. Rosecrans Ave., Compton. From left, George Melton, tenor; Pete Ingraham, lead; Murray Hollis, baritone; Dave Scroggins, bass and guitarist; Mel Taylor, piano.

God given body apart... I would say this — You might have a point, except that in pictures like Myra Breckenridge and Beyond the Valley of the Dolls, the cynical, dehumanizing portrayals of sex, abstracted from all genuine human relationships, have about as much to do with love as war has to do with peace.

To Mrs. H. G. — If you have an argument with some of the things Dean Trotter said, please argue with Dean Trotter. The reporter who interviews someone presents that person's viewpoint, not the reporter's.

And so to vacation. How can a week seem so long, and a year seem like a minute?

Hail Bishops for Grape Peace Role

The National Conference of Catholic Bishops this week sent a telegram of congratulations to the U.S. Bishops' Ad Hoc Committee on the Farm Labor Dispute, which helped mediate the long dispute between the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee and growers in Delano. Southland Archbishop Timothy Manning was one of the six members of the committee.

Workers, union officials and growers have praised the mediating work of the bishops, which was credited with a strong role, in the signing of contracts. Many of the farm workers are Roman Catholics. Partial text of the telegram by Bishop Joseph L. Bernardin, general secretary of the American bishops:

"Heartiest congratulations on the historic signing... The committee has fulfilled well the mandate given to it last April when the entire body of Bishops endorsed the work of the committee and supported it 'in its appeal to the growers and the workers to speedily resolve this dispute through the process of collective bargaining.' Surely your mediation efforts which have been carried on in the name of the Conference are a visible sign of the concern of the Church for the establishment of true social justice for growers and farm workers alike."

AT ARENA SUNDAY NIGHT

2,000 Brethren Here for National Meeting

An estimated 1,500 delegates from all parts of the country are attending the 81st annual conference of the National Fellowship of Brethren Churches, hosted by First Brethren Church at 36th Street and Linden Avenue.

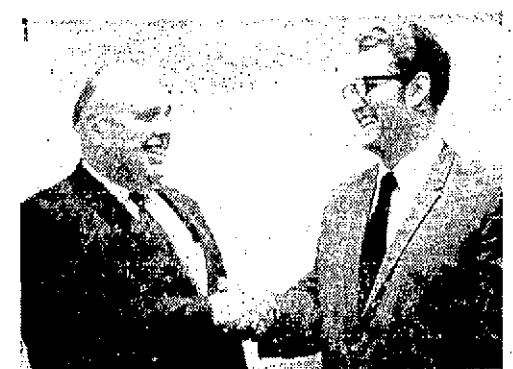

The week-long conference, which concludes next Friday night, will be highlighted by a Sunday night rally in the Sports Arena. A simultaneous week-long national youth conference has brought 500 delegates to the campus of Biola College in La Mirada.

The host pastor, Rev. Dr. David Hocking, announces that the general public is invited to all sessions.

A Christian education seminar is on tap today in the spacious church, with workshops for Sunday School teachers and workers, and a closing rally at the church tonight at 7.

The conference proper will be launched by the meeting Sunday, 7 p.m. in the Arena, will all seats free. Dr. Richard DeHaan, radio and TV teacher, will be featured speaker. Guests include the noted Crusaders musical group from Grace College in Winona Lake, Ind., and Dr. Dolores Johnson, UCLA nuclear physicist, and Robert Hage, vice president at McDonnell Douglas in Long Beach, who will offer testimony.

The Brethren group with a strong concentration of churches in this area, including the large North Long Beach Brethren

FROM THE PULPIT

Young person, who is your pastor? The indictment against the church in general is that it has failed to reach the youth. Christian youth programs are being directed more and more away from any connection with the local church. While those promoting such programs may have good intentions, they are not following God's method of New Testament evangelism. His program is to reach the young people through the Bible believing church where they can be guided in their spiritual growth by a pastor.

The church in general has failed the young by trying to offer a social program for them to be committed to instead of a "life-changing" Christ. Young people need an answer for their personal problems, before they can think about changing the world's wrongs. Young people have lost interest in the church because they have not become acquainted with the Christ of the church. Here at Calvary we do not lack for young people. Nearly 250 teen ninth grade through young adults attend Sunday School every Sunday. We reach new ones and retain the others because we emphasize the program of an evangelistic church. If you are looking for a place where young people believe the Bible and are not ashamed of church attendance, come and visit with us. Come to Calvary, Calvary is for you!

You Can Make Things Go Good

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

You can make things go good. One thing is sure — you don't have to just let life happen to you. You can exert a creative influence over it and change it.

Too many people make the mistake of thinking that fortune and misfortune are things they simply have to resign themselves to. As a matter of fact by using a simple formula you can take charge of circumstances. You can move in this complicated and difficult world and make things for the good, for you and for other people as well.

You're probably thinking, "That sure is a big order." I'll agree to that. But there is for a fact a certain type of person who "makes things go good." And he is not the sit-down-and-wait-for-it-to-happen-to-me type either. Recently I ran into a friend who, on the basis of his achievements, would, I presume, be considered one of the greatest and most successful sales merchandisers in this country. And he started from very humble beginnings too. To use his own phrase: "He didn't have two nickels to rub together." But from his earliest days in poverty this man had real faith; faith in God, faith in people, faith in his country and faith in himself.

I ASKED HIM when I met him the other day, "Are things going good with you?" He looked at me with surprise and said, "Good." Of course they are going good. How could they help it? I made them go good.

"So," I commented in some amazement, "you make them go good. Don't you ever have a bad day?"

Again he spoke with confidence, "Not me, I never have a bad day. Oh sure, naturally some days are a little better than others. There is bound to be a little variation between days, but when I start having what you'd call a bad day, I just look more closely to see what goal it contains."

for me, and you would be surprised how some days that seem to start out on the bad side turn out to be the best in my life."

The significant word in these upbeat comments is the word "goal." A sense of accomplishment of a goal is what changes everything from bad to good. People with sharply defined goals have enthusiasm and follow through. Hence, they make days good which less vital people find bad.

So I asked him, "Tell me, how did you condition yourself to look for the positive goals in life, so you can make every day a good day?"

This dynamic person told me that he was born (to use the old phrase) on the other side of the tracks. His family was tragically poor. No member of the family had ever had even a high school education. He had three strikes against him and then some.

Then something happened that really motivated him — a teacher and a preacher. The teacher told him he could go as high as he could think. The preacher told him that if he played it straight God would help him to be what he wanted to be.

So he formulated a goal to be the best salesman he could possibly be. Why a salesman? Well who knows the reasons for the driving motivations men develop? His was to be a real salesman.

He says that he "visualized" high school and college, and "what you can see yourself as doing you can do." Graduating from high school, top man in his class, earned his way by working in a restaurant and selling in vacation periods, he began to lay up a little money. "I studied; I thought; I watched how successful people did it. I worked and had faith, positive faith, and that was all there was to it."

CHURCH HUMOR

"What man could gaze on all of this and not believe in a hereafter?"

So when he told me that he made things go good was I going to laugh him off? I had to respect him as that type of character who makes things go good — for he had, hadn't he?

I KNOW that many of my readers are thinking, "Wait a minute! There are favored people in this country and there are disadvantaged people. The favored people may be able to take an attitude like the man you describe, but what about the people who have been denied opportunities? What of the people, in this land of affluence and prosperity, that suffer injustice, and live in deplorable conditions where survival itself is an achievement? This man you tell about was a freak. You just can't do things like that any more."

Many reading this, who say so, are facing great difficulties, but the greatest difficulties are not necessarily impossible, so great is the explosive power of letting dynamic faith enter your life. How can you make things go good, as they did for my friend who rose out of poverty? The answer is simple — believe and think, and work for your goals. You, too, can make things go good.

Pontiff Exhorts Priests Not to Abandon Celibacy

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI exhorted priests this week not to defect from "the sublime, very serious, yet very sweet obligations of celibacy."

Addressing a group of priests from Brescia, his home province, the pontiff said a priest must never seek "to laicize" his personality, or to break the bonds of obedience to bishops and to the Pope. At the same time, he added, it is legitimate for a priest to have some doubts regarding the "search for authenticity" and the effectiveness of church action. He said reforms that had grown from such doubts made the times "propitious, wonderful and decisive" for the church.

A Glance at TV's Football Schedule

By TERRY VERNON

Settlement of the dispute between the National Football League team owners and the NFL Players Association brought relief to worried schedule-makers for the three networks.

Hardest hit, should the season have been canceled, would have been ABC, which was counting on Monday night pro football as its 13-week trump card against NBC's movies and CBS' Mayberry-Day-Burnett bloc.

But now pro football will hit the home screens again, starting Sunday at 3 p.m. when KNXT (2) offers a taped replay of tonight's charity contest at the Coliseum pitting the Rams against the Cleveland Browns.

The NFL's new American Conference — expanded by the Baltimore Colts, Cleveland Browns and Pittsburgh Steelers — gets its living room kickoff on Friday when the Kansas City Chiefs host the Baltimore Colts, with action on NBC.

Other NBC preseason games slated for airing are the Jets-Vikings contest on Aug. 30 and a Chiefs-Cowboys encounter on Sept. 5. A schedule of weekly Sunday games begins Sept. 20, running through divisional playoffs and including the Super Bowl from Miami on Jan. 17.

GONE ARE the tape-delayed CBS preseason NFC games of other years.

The network finally is giving first-class citizenship to viewers in the Pacific time zones, and reshuffling prime-time schedules to bring live the Vikings-Oilers game Aug. 22, the Packers at Raiders on Aug. 30 and the Jets-Cowboys contest Sept. 13.

Weekly Sunday games begin Sept. 20, with schedule including eight double-headers (except when the Rams are at home), and continuing through divisional playoffs and the NFC-AFC All-Star Game on Jan. 24.

"I think he's rearranging his bones!"

In addition, KNXT will locally telecast taped replays of all six of the Rams' pre-season games — including those with the Browns (tomorrow), Cowboys, Raiders, Chargers, Oilers and 49ers.

ONLY ONE pre-season game is on tap for ABC, that being Aug. 28 from Pittsburgh's new Three Rivers Stadium where the Steelers launch their new quarterback Terry Bradshaw, from Louisiana Tech, against the New York Giants.

The 13-week Monday night (at 6 p.m. locally) football series gets underway on Sept. 21 when the New York Jets clash with the Cleveland Browns.

ABC's Saturday schedule of college football games begins Sept. 12 when Arkansas hosts Stanford at Little Rock.

It will be the first of two chances to see the Indians in action during the season, with other Pac-8 teams slated for the ABC cameras including USC, UCLA, Cal and Washington.

SPINNING THE DIAL — Regis Philbin, who wound up his KHJ-TV talk show series last night, will take over Monday as host of "Tempo," replacing Bob Grant. Low ratings have cancelled NBC's Linkletter show, which will be dropped as of Sept. 25.

Soviet Satellite in Earth Orbit

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union today launched its Intercosmos-3 satellite, carrying Russian and Czechoslovak equipment, into orbit around earth, the official news agency Tass said.

Tass said the shot will study space radiation, including that emanating from the sun, and the nature of electromagnetic activity in the earth's upper ionosphere.

HARBOR CHEVROLET

As the elderly gent walked up to the "Pearly Gates" and explained he was a Protestant, St. Peter welcomed him heartily and directed him to the left, where he was assured he would find those of his faith when he reached the sound of the beautiful hymn-singing.

A second gentleman then approached and made it known that he was of the Jewish faith, whereupon St. Peter sent him up a flight of stairs to the right and cheerfully announced that Rabbi Kahanovich had a party planned to welcome his arrival.

When a lady of 55 years presented herself and announced that she was of the Roman Catholic faith, St. Peter asked her to walk down the center hall to the golden door, and as an afterthought, shouted with a twinkly in his eye, and Bingo starts at half past seven!!!

Folks, we at Harbor will roll out the red carpet when you want that new Chevy or fine second car, 3770 Cherry, GA-6341. Dial "M" for MEDER.

TALL TREES . . . Part of Pick-a-Plan's charm

PICK-A-PLAN

Varied Financing Aid to Buyers

Featuring new, lowered rates and a choice of financing programs for new home buyers, Don McMullen, marketing director of Occidental Petroleum Land and Development Corporation, announced a unique "Pick-A-Plan" finance program now available at its Lake Forest and Diamond Point Homes.

Newly-introduced at two of its major master-planned communities in the Southland, "Pick-A-Plan" is termed by McMullen as "a breakthrough in home financing for Southern California home buyers." "It eliminates," he said, "the one big obstacle that seemingly has kept many people from buying a new home: an interest rate they couldn't live with."

The new "Pick-A-Plan" program provides an Annual Percentage Rate as low as 6 1/4 per cent, according to the down payment and monthly payment plan chosen.

The program offers the family a choice of four different Annual Percentage Rates together with a choice of down payments and floor plan selections. They are called Programs 35, 20, 10 and 5.

Basic essentials of Program 35 — House Price: $32,495. Down Payment: $11,395. Balance: $21,100. Monthly Payment: $140 per month. Number of Months: 300 months. Annual Percentage Rate: 6 1/4 per cent.

Basic essentials of Program 5 — House Price: $32,495. Down Payment: $395. Balance: $31,500. Monthly Payment: $238 per month. Number of Months: 360 months. Annual Percentage Rate: 8 1/4 per cent.

Closing costs are $250 on all plans plus tax and insurance imposts.

"The new program is part of the 'total living' we've created at Lake Forest and Diamond Point," said McMullen. "It's a concrete example of Occidental's continuing efforts to give the extra benefits to the home buyer. We expect to be trendsetters in doing everything possible to help today's new home buyer."

Inflationary Psychology Destroyed, Says Chase Bank

"The events of the past few months have substantially demolished the psychology that lay behind the inflationary boom of the late 1960s," according to The Chase Manhattan Bank, N.A.

Moreover, the bank says in the August issue of its bi-monthly economic report Business in Brief, "the next period of business expansion need not have the same inflationary impact as in the past few years."

As a basis for this hope, the bank sees "clear signs today that productivity is again improving, perhaps quite rapidly. Until recently," the report notes, "there had been no significant improvement in efficiency since 1963. Thus every increase in wages produced higher prices or lower profits — usually both."

Noting that the inflationary psychology included "the belief that expansion would continue uninterrupted — that the boom would not and indeed could not be brought to an end," the Chase report says that businessmen adhered to that belief and made investment plans based on it well into 1970.

"Surveys early this year showed that business expected sharply increased sales and profits in 1970," the bank points out. Thus "preliminary surveys last winter showed that business planned to increase its investment in new plants and equipment by more than 10 per cent this year."

"But as profits and volume fell," Chase reports, "these plans have been progressively reduced. The latest official survey indicates that investment will be up by only 7.8 per cent this year." An econometric model developed by Chase Manhattan indicates that this increase may actually be considerably less than 5 per cent.

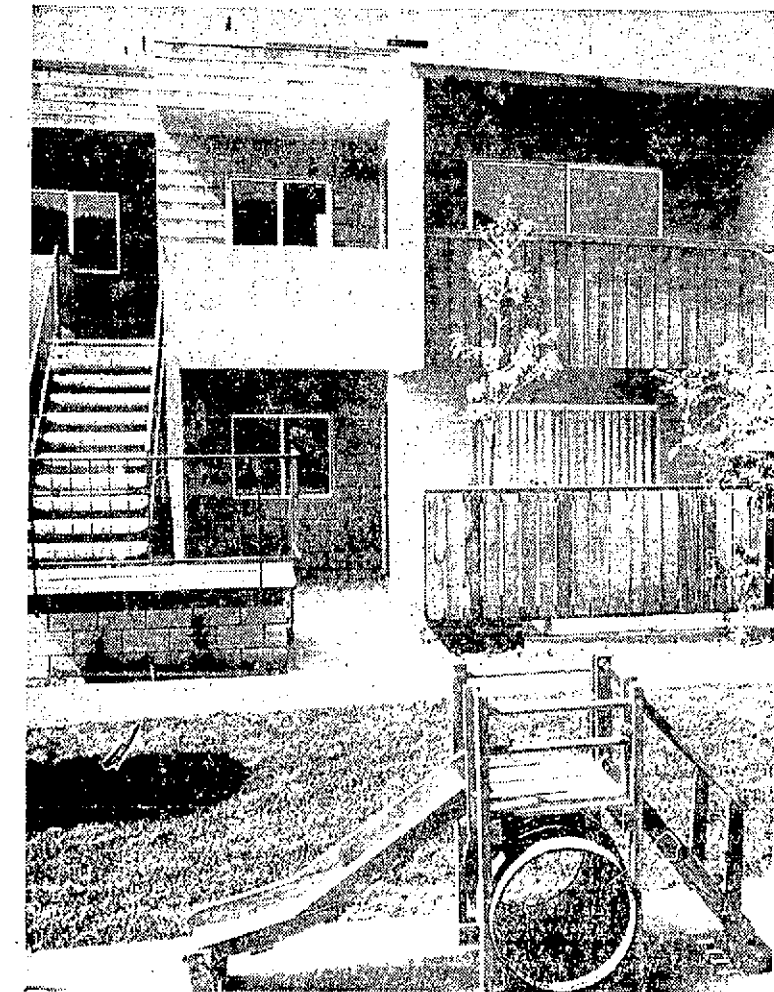

By the second quarter of 1970, a downturn in business was evident, the bank notes:

"Industrial production has declined in ten of the last eleven months. It is now about 3 1/2 per cent below the July 1969 peak."

"Corporate profits after taxes are running 12-14 per cent under the peak reached in early 1969."

"Recognition of the fact of recession," the bank points out, "has produced a response that represents a major step toward price stability. It was inevitable that costs would get somewhat out of hand during almost nine years of expanding business. But by the second quarter of this year," the bank adds, "with profits and volume clearly declining, business began to react strongly. Operations were tightened; costs were cut. And efficiency began to improve."

Bob Beckman, Business-Real Estate editor, is on vacation through the month of August. Mark Clutter is substituting for him.

S & S Construction Company, the builder-developer, plans 103 homes which are totally separate but arranged in clusters around six cul-de-sacs. Within the walled community of Parkwood, there will be 3 1/2 acres of landscaped greenbelts and squares and an adult recreation center and clubhouse.

Each Parkwood home is elongated and geometrically designed to open on one side facing a private side patio which runs the length of the home. Since Parkwood homes will be built on a side and rear lot line, the homeowner will only maintain this one area of ground; and according to Emil Tessin, president of S & S, most homebuyers will plan this area as an outdoor entertainment center which requires little or no upkeep.

Within steps of the side entrance and the patio, landscaped grounds are maintained by the homeowner's association; so Parkwood homeowners can enjoy virtually "nil" maintenance of lawns.

Every Parkwood home has a two-car garage with an automatic garage door, and there is additional parking for guests in every cul-de-sac which feed into the private street which circles the walled community and opens onto Lampson Boulevard.

The interiors of each of the five Parkwood models, which are on display, are filled with architectural features which express openness and airiness. Perhaps the most significant space creating features are the cathedral ceilings and windows and cantilevered runways and rooms.

The one and two story model homes at Parkwood have from two to four bedrooms and up to three baths. Since this is an adult community, many of these rooms will become special rooms for hobbies or an at-home office for the housewife with business or investment interests. The interior designs by Roger Franks, A.I.D., give homebuyers a variety of decorating ideas for individualizing their own Parkwood home.

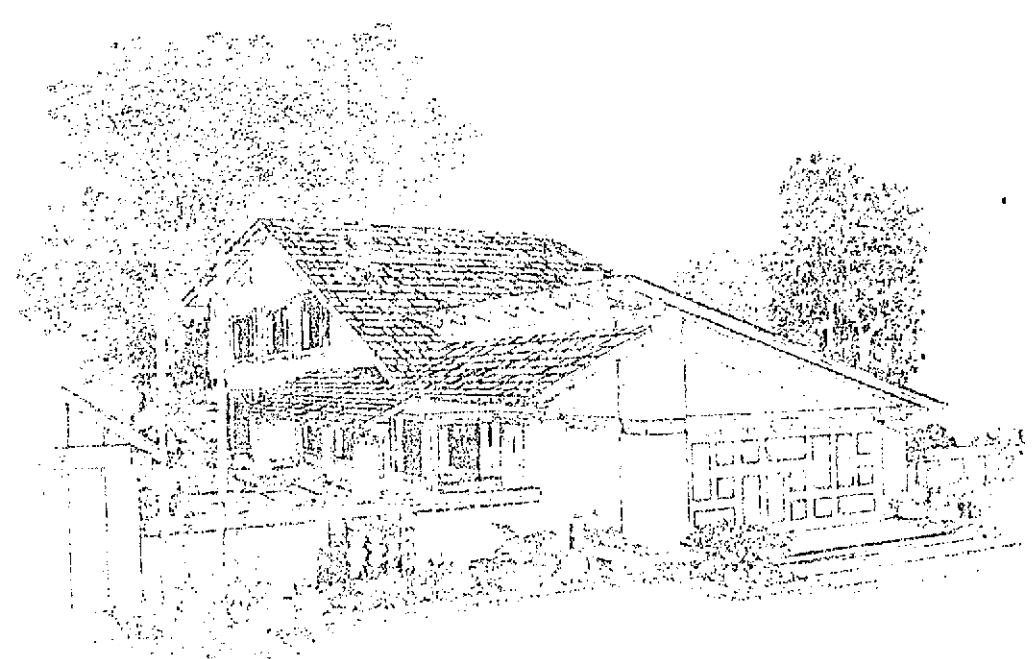

Every Parkwood home features genuine lath and plaster construction, which will add natural soundproofing and insulation in every room. In addition other quality features will go into each home, such as, cast iron tubs and sinks, ceramic tile tub splash and showers, hand-finished cabinets and custom-designed, wood burning fireplaces with gas starter jets.

Following an S & S tradition, homebuyers select many of the items in their home including wall to wall carpeting and Armstrong vinyl pattern and color scheme. If homebuyers want additional items for their new home or want to duplicate interior design ideas displayed at Parkwood, Shapell's Interiors in Westminster offers decorating services and home furnishing items for S & S homebuyers or homeowners.

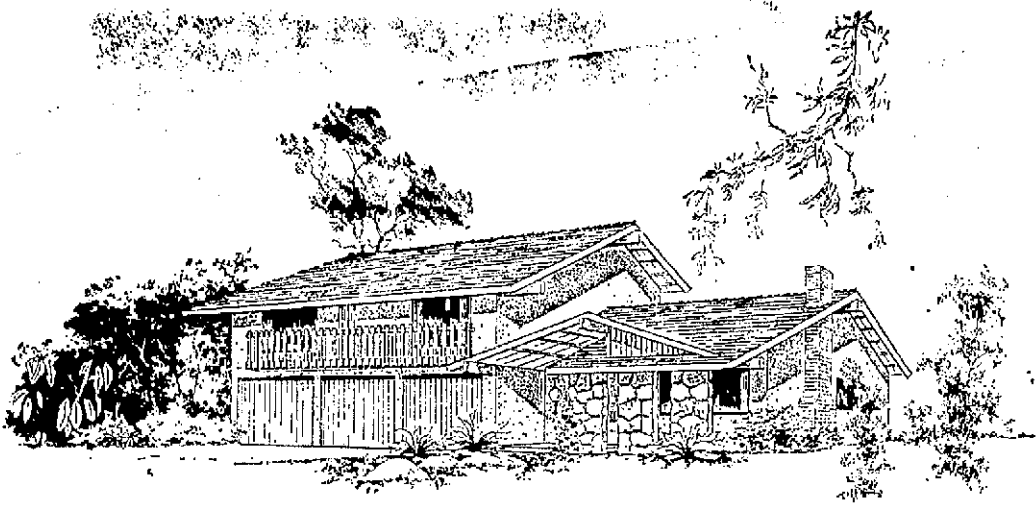

Parkwood Homes carry the P.I.P.E. Blue Ribbon Award for outstanding plumbing features and the Southern California Edison's Bronze Medallion for excellence in planning for electric living. The all-electric kitchens have O'Keefe and Merrill continuous clean ovens with easy-view doors, ranges with hoods and built in exhaust systems, fully automatic dishwashers, and waste disposals.

Although the first units are under construction now, the recreation complex and five model homes opened in late May. The adult recreation center includes a kidney-shaped swimming pool, a heated jacuzzi whirlpool, a well-equipped pool area for sunbathing and a barbecue area featuring a large open pit barbecue. The two-story clubhouse is activity-ready with a billiard room, and a second floor lounge and party room outfitted with both a kitchen and bar. In addition, the clubhouse features men's and women's saunas and showers.

Parkwood is opened daily from 10 a.m. until Sunset with five models and the clubhouse and recreation complex. Parkwood homes start at $27,490; they are located off Lampson Blvd. between Valley View and Los Alamitos (Seal Beach) Blvd. in Los Alamitos.

GRACEFUL CHARM . . . Characteristic of La Linda Homes.

Grand Opening Scheduled for La Linda Park Homes

Grand Opening activities are scheduled for the new $8 million La Linda community in Fountain Valley.

Located on Euclid Street, just north of Warner Avenue, and across from Fountain Valley's Mile Square Park, the community, to eventually comprise some 228 homes, offers single, two-story and tri-level plans ranging in price from $29,950.

Directly across from the Euclid Street model entrance is the Mile Square Regional Park, one of the newest and most complete community parks in Southern California.

The park offers a myriad of recreational facilities.

An 18-hole public golf course is now open. A historic village children's zoo, three-acre lake, hiking trails, tot lots, picnic areas, teen dance center, cultural center and bicycle trails are now under construction at the mile square regional park.

La Linda has four model homes of Spanish, contemporary and traditional designs. Plans with three, four and five bedrooms, two or three baths and two and three-car garages are available.

A completely finished bonus room in the Santa Barbara (plan 26) model can be used as a rumpus room, or converted to provide any type of room a homebuyer may need, including extra bedrooms.

Several optional room arrangements are displayed at the La Linda sales display center.

The homes are said to be completely family-ready including in the purchase price such items as drapes, double entry doors, fireplaces with log lighters, custom carpeting, paneled family room walls, formal dining rooms, private bath suites for all master bedrooms, forced air heating and walk-in closets are all included in the La Linda homes.

The exteriors are provided with wood, shake and shingle roofs, concrete driveways, front private courts, front yard landscaping with a tree and sprinklers, rear yard fencing and balconies.

"Most commented that buying across from a large park would cause their homes to appreciate," La Linda principal Richard Hall said. "Others said they like the location because it's only six miles from the beaches yet far enough to escape the coastal fog."

The building firm has been the recipient of several building awards. The most recent was the 1969 Gold Nugget grand prize received from a national building trade magazine.

La Linda's builders, Hall and Robert Main, have retained Walker & Lee as sales counselors for the Fountain Valley homes. FHA, VA and conventional terms are available.

Walker & Lee will keep offices and models open daily from 10 a.m. to dusk. For information phone (714) 839-2580.

Hall, builder of La Linda Homes, reports that just 10 large and luxurious La Linda Homes remain in the Magnolia Series in Fountain Valley.

The Magnolia Series is the first of two La Linda subdivisions in that city.

"This was a limited offering of just 36 national award-winning homes which are much larger than average," Hall said.

"Only 10 homes remain -- and, while it's an often-used phrase, they really represent a rare chance to buy a home of this type."

"Economic conditions have changed so much since we started these homes that today we simply could not afford to build such large dwellings with all the extras."

As a "back to school special" La Linda is offering a package which includes carpeting, drapes, fencing and front landscaping with a tree and sprinkler system. The ten homes can be ready for immediate occupancy by the time escrow closes, in time for school in September.

Describing the spaciousness of the Magnolia Series homes, Hall noted that the average home in the series has 2,200 square feet of living space and the largest home has over 2,500 square feet. Each La Linda home has large entry halls, living rooms and dining rooms.

All bedrooms are above average in size and the master suite is over 700 square feet. All master suites have separate dressing areas and large walk-in closets or double wardrobes. Some even have Roman tubs.

Entries have Italian ceramic tile on the floor and wall-papered walls. The family rooms are wood paneled. More than three dozen extra features can be found in the kitchen, including side-by-side ovens and double broilers, three-compartment sinks, built-in electric toaster, can opener, blender and timer, and furniture-finish cabinets with silver storage drawer and pull-out pan shelves and towel racks. Carpeting shown in the model homes is the same high quality that goes into the homes.

On Magnolia Street, one block north of Talbert Avenue, the models may be reached by taking the San Diego Freeway to Magnolia, then driving south one mile on Magnolia. La Linda Homes may also be reached by driving east on Talbert from Beach Boulevard or east from Brookhurst Street.

Jack Horner Appointed by CCC

The California Contractors Council is expanding its operations to include the entire state and has appointed Jack Horner, manager of the Builders' Exchange of Long Beach, as its Southern California representative, it was announced this week by Executive Vice President Paul F. Hughey.

The CCC, which has its headquarters offices in Sacramento, is the labor relations and negotiating committee of the California State Builders' Exchange; but up until the present time, its activities have been confined to 46 counties in northern and central California.

Membership in the CCC — which is now signatory to Master Labor Agreements with the carpenters, cement masons, operating engineers, construction laborers, construction teamsters and field iron workers — is limited to general contractors who are either members of a construction trade association affiliated with the State Exchange or who are members-at-large of that organization, Hughey explained.

Contractors interested in further information regarding the CCC and its expansion program should contact Jack Horner at the Builders' Exchange of Long Beach, Hughey suggested. The address is 1423 Walnut Avenue, Long Beach 90813.

Farm Hand Began Career as Tycoon on Signal Hill

Samuel B. Mosher, 77, California oilman-philanthropist, died Tuesday at the Dos Pueblos Ranch near Santa Barbara after a long illness. He was the founder and former chairman of Signal Oil and Gas Company.

In 1922, discouraged with a $50-a-month job on a citrus farm, he borrowed $4,000 and with the help of a government bulletin, built a small natural gasoline plant at Signal Hill, California. Over 48 energy-packed years, he pyramided this do-it-yourself venture into the west's largest independent oil company and finally into the multi-industry group of Signal Companies with combined sales in 1969 of $1.5 billion.

Mosher played important roles in the success of American President Lines and Flying Tiger Lines and was a central figure in the forming of American Independent Oil Company which holds a concession in the Kuwait-Saudi Arabia Neutral Zone. As a private enterprise, he built one of his favorite hobbies into the world's most prodigious orchid growing operation, the Dos Pueblos Orchid Co.

Remaining active well beyond normal retirement age, he maintained a keen interest in new business ventures as was evidenced when his decisive action led to the merger of Signal and The Garrett Corporation in 1964 and in later mergers with Mack Trucks and Arizona Bancorporation, now renamed Signal Equities Company.

Prominent in industry affairs, Mosher served as a director of the Petroleum Industry War Council during World War II and was also a director of the American Petroleum Institute. He had long been active in education as a regent of the University of California, an honorary life trustee of Occidental College, a life member of the Associates of California Institute of Technology, and an associate of the University of Southern California. He established the Henry M. Mosher scholarships in engineering at Stanford University in memory of his father. Through the Samuel B. Mosher Foundation, he contributed to educational, cultural, civic, and charitable endeavors.

He was a Shriner, member of the California Club, Beverly Hills Wine and Food Society, Jonathan

SAMUEL B. MOSHER

Club, a former president of the Men's Garden Club of Los Angeles, a member of the Bear River Gun Club in Utah, and a member of The Tuna Club in Avalon.

Born in Carthage, New York, October 13, 1892, he was the son of a hardware merchant and one of five children. The family moved to California in 1895 and he had spent the greater part of his life in Los Angeles where he was graduated from Polytechnic High School. He received his bachelor of science degree in agriculture at the University of California at Berkeley in 1916.

Under Mosher's direction, Signal expanded its oil operations in the western and southwestern states through merger with the Hancock Oil Company and Bankline Oil Company in California and with Eastern States Petroleum and Chemical Company, Houston, Texas, in 1958-59.

Always interested in any business venture that looked promising, he put Signal into the potato chip and snack food business with the acquisition of Laura Scudder's in 1957. The business prospered and five years later was sold to the Pet Milk Company. Signal's transition into a multi-industry group of companies began with the Garrett merger in 1964, followed by the Mack, Arizona Bancorporation and Dunham-Bush mergers in 1967.

It was often said that Mosher had a "golden touch," but close associates attributed his success to his courageous decisions and persistence in supporting any venture he believed in. He remained unimpressed by success and wealth, and enjoyed the company of a wide circle of friends.

In 1945, he helped Flying Tiger Lines get started by putting up $26,000 and served for many years as chairman of the air freight and charter carrier. In 1948, he joined his long time friend and business associate, oilman Ralph K. Davies, in putting together the group which formed American Independent Oil Company. In 1952, he and Davies formed a syndicate which made the winning bid for American President Lines, then being operated by the U.S. government.

Surviving are the widow, the former Margaret Clinch McGann, of Santa Barbara, a daughter, Mrs. Arthur Powell Williams of Goleta, California, and three sisters, Mrs. Marjorie Schmidt of Newport Beach, California, Mrs. Dorothy Galt of Hawaii, and Mrs. Agnes Shumway of Los Angeles.

Services were held All Saints Episcopal Church in Beverly Hills on Friday, August 7, at 11 a.m.

Sellers Heads Presley Firm

In addition to serving Presley Development Company in an advertising and public relations capacity, Benton-Pacific will represent other Southern California businesses, including Advanced Homes of Redlands.

Sellers, a Fountain Valley resident and a former Orange County newspaper editor, has been director of corporate relations for Rogers, Cowan & Brenner, Beverly Hills public relations agency, for the past year. THE WEEK'S PATENTS

Women Patent 'Hotcoat' for Cold Weather Chills

WASHINGTON — Two women have received the patent rights to an electrically heated garment that they call the Hotcoat.

Having worn models of the coat with comfort, they plan to manufacture it themselves or license a raincoat maker.

Patent 3,519,791 was granted to Mark T. Basseches and Ely S. Margolis, who assigned it to Mrs. Marjorie Margolis of New Rochelle and Mrs. Lorraine Shachnow of New York, an advertising writer for Benton & Bowles. The patent application was filed by Margolis, a plastics manufacturer, and Basseches, a New York patent lawyer.

The Hotcoat is belted around the middle. A switch in the buckle turns on the current. Two inside pockets hold the batteries, and the heating element, made of material used for space capsule noses, goes around the waist.

The fullness of the garment hides the batteries and traps the heat over a considerable area. The temperature can be raised by as much as 34 degrees.

As long as the fastener is disengaged, there is no drain on the batteries. In normal cold-weather usage, these are expected to last a week or two.

The owners have had sample garments made in raincoat fabric and in corduroy.

THE SONY Corporation received a patent for a useful device not much bigger than a pencil point, which switches current on and off under influence of can also replace the brushes and commutator in a direct-current motor. Oiler applications are in magnetic detectors, volume controls and various types of switches.

In the turntable, the magnetodiode is inserted in the tone arm and comes within the field of a magnet as it nears the center of a record. Sony says its turntable Model PS-1800, which is sold in this country, "yields truly rumble-free performance and a new low in wow and flutter."

When the salesman waves at the lantern, the magnet is in the end of the wand.

A CONTROL system offers regulated exercise for heart patients and prevents them from overdoing.

Wayne E. Quinton of the Quinton Instrument Company, Seattle, Wash., was awarded Patent 3,518,985. His equipment monitors both the heart's rate and its rate of acceleration, or change.

A patent drawing shows a man standing on the endless belt of a motor-operated treadmill, with his hands on a support rail. A pick-up device attached to his body records the heart rates, which are displayed on instrument dials, along with the speed of the treadmill.

The treadmill operation can be regulated according to the desired constant heart rate and rate of acceleration for the patient. Control may be exerted manually, by an operator who sees by the dials that a danger point is near. There is also provision for automatic control by a special circuit.

"USERS ARE LOSERS, LISA"

John Gustafson, general manager of Murphy Lincoln-Mercury in Long Beach, points out anti-narcotic booklet to his teen-age daughter, Lisa, at his dealership at 1940 Lakewood Blvd. Gustafson is giving away the booklets entitled "Users Are Losers" to interested individuals and groups. On the wall are slogans and posters underscoring the dangers of drug addiction.

By ART STEPHAN
Auto Editor

It would be great to have more men like him in the business community.

I'm talking about John Gustafson, vice president and general manager of Murphy Lincoln-Mercury in Long Beach. Why?

Well, Gustafson and his staff have been giving away an unusual drug abuse booklet entitled "Users Are Losers" at their showroom at the Traffic Circle in Long Beach in recent weeks and have been receiving a tremendous response, according to Gustafson, who considers it "sound, long-range business practice" to become involved in the community, other than selling cars.

"Every businessman should come to realize as we have that our youth of today are our customers of tomorrow. If young people destroy their lives with drugs, then they're destroying the free enterprise system of tomorrow," commented Gustafson, president of the firm.

"The cost to us of giving away these booklets is small compared to the anguish suffered by parents faced with a 'doper' in their home. 'Users Are Losers' is the best book of its kind on the market and we feel it serves an excellent purpose in educating both teenager and adult."

Murphy Lincoln Mercury is giving away the booklets free to any group, organization or individual who is concerned or wants information regarding this problem.

"Users Are Losers" is unusual in style as it is the only booklet on drug abuse known to have been prepared in an eye-appealing cartoon style. Virtually all the questions asked in the booklet are actual questions from juveniles who were sought out during the preparation of the publication. Answers were carefully critiqued by a number of educators and governmental agencies including narcotic and juvenile police officers.

According to Gustafson, the book stresses peer credibility and objectivity. "The brochure presents the facts and lets the young person come to his own conclusion once he has all the facts. We won't deny that our objective — and the book's — is to establish attitudes opposing illegal drug usage, but we don't believe in scare techniques or cramming it down a youngster's throat."

"When statistics show over a 2,000 per cent increase in juvenile drug arrests in the last ten years, it drives home the point that all of us must make greater efforts to curtail the drug problem. Our primary objective with this program is to equip youth with sufficient information for them to make an intelligent and wise decision," Gustafson declared. The initial response has been excellent, but supplies of "Users Are Losers" are limited to books on hand.

Murphy Lincoln Mercury is located at 1940 Lakewood Boulevard.

PROTECCION DE TITULO

Inefficiency Costs Offices Here $20 Million a Day

Los Angeles and Long Beach metropolitan area businessmen are losing about $20 million daily as a result of outmoded, inefficient work methods and practices in their offices, a leading business consultant estimates.

"Manpower utilization efficiency in most offices rarely exceeds 60 per cent," according to James H. Duncan, chairman of Wofac Company, which has made extensive studies in this field. "In fact," Duncan says, "it may actually fall below 40 per cent in some operations, depending on the lost time resulting from such things as gossiping, stretched break periods, or just plain inefficiency."

There are an estimated 1,412,000 office workers here, according to an analysis of recent Federal government reports. A weighted average of wages for all office workers nationally indicates their average wage is $35 per working day, and if one takes Duncan's 60 per cent utilization figure, it's a simple computation to determine that $19,769,400 probably is being paid daily for work not being performed here.

"Increasing the productivity of office workers can improve a company's cash flow position, provide manpower for expanded operations and generally aid the profit picture of a business enterprise," Duncan says, pointing out that "it most often also results in an improved wage plan for employees."

Conversely, he says, failure to act here, and in other key cities across the country, will help drag down the growth of the U.S. economy as a whole.

White-collar and service workers total 61 per cent of U.S. employment, according to the most recent government figures. This is the fastest-growing segment of employment, faster than blue-collar and farm workers, yet it has the smallest rate of growth in terms of increased output per employee, Duncan says.

Many people believe that the great advances of computers, highspeed copying machines, and advanced office systems have increased office productivity, Duncan says. "But that's not true. These devices have only increased the output and volume of information. They have not increased the value of the data, nor the real productivity of the workers, nor have they reduced the number of workers processing the data."

The answer to the problem, he says, is to apply the same general techniques of work measurement and controls to office work as those used for many years in improving the productivity of production workers. He notes that in years past, when production workers made up the greatest share of the employed population, companies fell into the practice of squeezing excess costs out of their operations.

"Only about 5 per cent of office workers are subject to work measurement standards, in sharp contrast to some 80 to 85 per cent of production workers. With the management tools we have today we can successfully and accurately measure the work, institute new procedures, and place better controls in the hands of supervisors so as to increase the effectiveness and productivity of nearly everyone engaged in office work," Duncan says.

Duncan's company, Wofac, with headquarters in Moorestown, N.J., is a 24-year-old international management consulting firm that has specialized in systems of work measurement and control for both production and non-production labor. Wofac is the major operating division of Science Management Corporation, which is traded on the American Stock Exchange.

Prestigious Bixby Hill

LIVING ROOM . . . Bixby Hills' Cabrillo Model

Innovative decorating concepts in Southern California are now being shown at Bixby Hill in Long Beach. This prestigious community is now in its final stages. Lots and homes in the last undeveloped segment of Bixby Hill are now being offered for sale with 5 beautifully decorated models open for viewing.

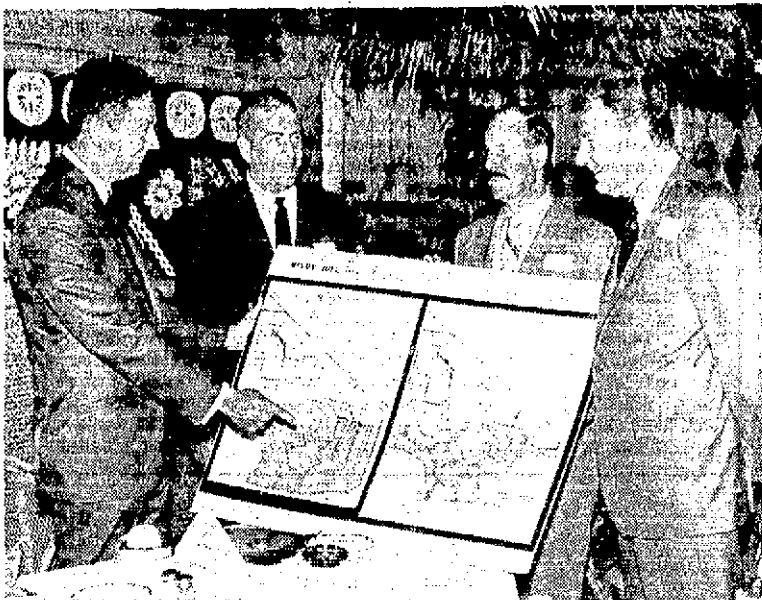

At this most exclusive new home community in Long Beach, Roger Franks, A.I.D., has successfully blended two themes: a totally modern living environment set against a backdrop of the historical Rancho Los Alamitos and the Spanish heritage which is part of Bixby Hill tradition.

One of the more strikingly decorated models is the Cabrillo. This two-story, 5-bedroom home features a glass-encased atrium which separates the entry hall and dining and living room areas. The elegance and spacious feeling expressed in the glazed tile entryway and atrium is carried into the living area.

In the living room, the focal point is the white, crushed velvet tuxedo sofa with oversized ottomans. The coffee table is white marble and has an unusual square mirrored base. To contrast the snowy white sofa, Mr. Franks has chosen a rich blue carpet. This blue is repeated in accent pillows and other accessories along with splashes of silver. The adjoining dining room carries the same color combinations with an Oriental Flair. Both rooms are paneled in white birch with occasional mirrored feature strips.

The family room, located on the opposite side of the house sets a mood that is casual, warm and comfortable. The total emphasis sis here is on "liveability". The blue and white color theme is continued with the added touch of red.

Long Beach Councilman Paul Deats, second from right, and Long Beach Planning Commission Chairman Don Phillips, right, view final plans for the completion of the prestige Long Beach community, Bixby Hill. With them, discussing plot plans are Bernard McCune, left, senior vice president of Shapell Industries and S & S Construction president, Emil Tassin. Five model homes were opened recently for this last segment of Bixby Hill at 845 Hillside Drive. A total of 122 homes will be built.

A cheerful, red and blue floral print pattern is used both in wall coverings and in drapery and sofa fabrics. The deep red color is picked up in plump pillows and a giant shag area rug. To counterbalance the light, flowery pattern, the wood furniture in the room is heavy and traditional in style. A pass-through wet bar and a three-sided fireplace with a step-down conversation pit complete the setting.

Pollution Control

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — There's money in dirty air.

Numerous businesses are discovering they've been letting valuable assets go up in smoke and have started doing something about it.

Fly ash removed from exhaust gases at electric power plants is now being used in concrete mixes and asphalt, reports Joy Manufacturing Company, which produces pollution control equipment. Utilities, which once had the headache of disposing the residue, now are selling part of it.

In the cement industry much of the dust collected — in the interest of pollution prevention — from gases before it goes up the stack is returned to the cement-making process. Valuable quantities of copper, silver and gold are being recovered from ore-roasting processes by filtering the "dirty" gases emitted.

Lyon Co. Buys Firm in East

William Lyon, president of Wm. Lyon Development Company, the world-wide real estate subsidiary of American Standard Inc., announced the acquisition of Twin Rivers Corporation, developer of $120,000,000 PUD community of the same name near Princeton, New Jersey.

Herbert J. Kendall, originator of the multi-million dollar project, has sold his one-half interest in New Jersey's first PUD community to the Lyon Development Company. Lyon's company had previously owned a one-half interest, which it acquired in February 1969. Kendall will remain at Twin Rivers as President.

The acquisition now gives Wm. Lyon Development Company a solid eastern operations base from which the company plans to expand into additional PUD and other shelter projects, including multi-family, on the East Coast. To date, Lyon has been building only on a joint venture basis in the East, with such projects under development in Virginia and Maryland.

Kendall will also serve as Lyon's Operations Director for new projects developed out of the New Jersey headquarters.

The totally planned community is situated on 719 acres, and will eventually house 10,000 people in 3,000 single family homes, townhouses and apartments. Twin Rivers was recently named as part of the U.S. State Department's "People to People Program" and is to serve as the focus for a long-term examination of living trends in a planned community by the sociology department of Princeton University.

Busiest Canal

BONN (UPI) — Already handling four times as many ships as the Suez at its peak, the Kiel ship canal, world's busiest, is to be widened and deepened at a cost of 600 million marks ($152 million) to carry still more vessels between the North Sea and the Baltic.

Japan Best U.S. Farm Customer

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The latest figures available from the U.S. Department of Agriculture indicate that U.S. sales of farm products to Japan in the fiscal year ending June 30 totaled $1,089 million. This marks the first time that any country has purchased over $1 billion in farm products from the United States in a single year. The previous high export total to Japan was $939 million in fiscal 1967.

With this heavy export volume Japan strengthens its position as the foremost customer for U.S. food and fiber. Japan purchased over one-sixth of U.S. agricultural products exported in this fiscal year, and took the production from nearly 10 million acres of U.S. cropland. Japan was the top commercial market for U.S. soybeans, feed grains, wheat, cotton, hides and skins, safflower seed, inedible tallow, lemons, and alfalfa pellets, and was an important outlet for tobacco, fruit, pork, and a large variety of other farm products.

The United States was the largest single source of agricultural products to the Japanese market in 1969-70, supplying nearly one-third of the total. The U.S. provided more than two-thirds of the Japanese imports of fats and oils and feed grains; more than one-half of the wheat and hides and skins; nearly two-fifths of several feed ingredients; a quarter of the cotton; and around one-sixth of fruits, nuts and meats.

In dollar value, leading U.S. farm exports to Japan during the year just ended were feed grains with $335 million, followed by soybeans $251 million, wheat $136 million, cotton $73 million, hides and skins $60 million and tobacco $50 million.

Lower Mortgage Rates Predicted

By NORMAN KEMPSTER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The president of the Federal National Mortgage Association (FNMA) says the mortgage market is beginning a turn-around that will eventually mean lower interest rates on home loans.

The official, Oakley Hunter, based his prediction on recent increases in the volume of savings going into thrift institutions — savings and loan associations and mutual savings banks.

"Beneath the surface of the turbulence that has beset us the basis for a turn-around is developing," Hunter said in a speech. "Now that short-term interest rates are down a point or more from their peak . . . thrift institutions are showing some recovery."

"Indeed, we wonder how much in mortgages FNMA will buy during the fourth quarter this year. We anticipated buying some $6 billion in 1970. If the turn-around which already has occurred is reinforced by a further decline in market interest rates as the present demand for funds abates, then the thrift institutions may come alive and bid some mortgages away from us."

"That would mean that the mortgage market was beginning to see the light of day, that buyers would ultimately pay somewhat lower interest rates on mortgages and that our whole position with regard to financing housing would enter a stage of marked improvement."

S&L REPORT

Hunter's association, often called Fannie Mae because of its initials, is a privately-owned corporation spawned by the government to buy and sell FHA and VA mortgages in an effort to stabilize the market.

Hunter's view was reinforced by a report from the U.S. Savings and Loan League that savings deposits at the nation's S & L's in May exceed withdrawals by $650 million, compared to $842 million in May of 1969.

It was the third straight month in which the S & L savings flow was better than a year earlier.

The League said S & L's made loans totaling $1.7 billion in May, a greater than seasonal growth over the $1.4 billion lending reported in April.

High interest rates have been blamed for a prolonged slump in home building. Private housing starts were at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.2 million units in May, far below the 1.9 million rate recorded in January, 1969, the month before the slide began.

Home building is limping along at far below the pace needed to fulfill the nation's goal of 24 million new or rehabilitated homes in the 10 years between 1968 and 1978.

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI) — Data Recognition Corp. has obtained an order for off-line optical scanner encoder units from two regional service associations of the Master Charge bank credit card network, one on the East Coast and the other in Atlanta.

Low-Income Families Get Homebuying Help

NEW YORK (UPI) — Financial help is available to enable low income families to buy their own homes, but eligible families are just not getting the word.

Harold W. Greenwood, Jr., president of Midwest Federal Savings and Loan Association in Minneapolis, says relatively few people are buying houses under Section 235 of the National Housing Act because eligible families in the ghettos, poor rural areas and low income families throughout the country, are not being told about the program.

The bill, originated by Greenwood and introduced by Senator Walter Mondale of Minnesota, offers assistance in the form of monthly payments by HUD (Housing and Urban Development) to banks to reduce interest cost on a market rate home mortgage insured by the FHA to as little as one per cent if a homeowner cannot afford to make the mortgage payments with 20 per cent of his income.

"SIMPLY put," Greenwood explained, "under Section 235, a low-income family files an application at any bank of his choice that has expressed willingness to make Section 235 loans. The application is sent to the local FHA office. If the requirements are met, a commitment is issued to the lender stating what the amount of subsidy will be and the fact that the mortgage will be insured by the FHA. The family then can proceed to close the sale on the house. The bank receives the subsidy amount directly from HUD.

"The down payment," Greenwood said, "will be $200, which may be by labor, equity or a gift. This is to pay closing costs and prepaid expenses."

"Assets of the applicant may not exceed $2,000, or $5,000 in the case of a buyer 62 years or older. Such assets do not include the value of household goods or automobile. The base amount may be increased by $500 for each dependent under 21 years old, plus an amount equal to the applicant's share of the mortgage payments for one year.

"THE AMOUNT of subsidy paid by FHA," Greenwood explained, "will be the lesser of the two figures established as follows:

"—The difference between 20 per cent of the adjusted income and the monthly payment to principal, interest at 8½ per cent, FHA premium, taxes and hazard insurance.

"—The difference between one per cent and 8½ per cent monthly payment, plus payment to principal, FHA premium, taxes and hazard insurance."

CALIFORNIA HOUSING STARTS 1967-1970

SMALL UPSURGE

Housing starts in California reached a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 173,000 in June, the highest rate of the year, according to Bank of America economists. During the first six months of 1970, housing starts totaled 73,785, down from the mid-1969 figure of 87,853. Most of this drop is reflected in single unit dwellings, with a 1970 total of 31,259 compared with 43,605 a year ago. The economists said it is unlikely that the June rate of new housing starts can be maintained in the months ahead, with the recent drop in permits for apartment house construction indicating some future weakness in this sector.

'Festival of Homes' Offered in La Palma

Parrow Realty will be handling sales for the 8th unit of Festival of Homes located in the city of La Palma, offering luxury homes starting at $23,950. Such prime-located, prestige homes will never again be feasible in the price range," predicts Sales Manager Roger Freeberg describing these spacious 3 and 4-bedroom, one and two-story homes.

Festival of Homes offer cathedral ceiling, patio kitchens with built-ins, custom wood-burning fireplaces and master bedroom suites with private bathrooms. Also included are walk-in closets, storage areas, separate laundry rooms, fencing and concrete driveways.

Now into its 8th successful unit, with over 300 homes sold and occupied, "Festival of Homes have not cut corners in order to come up with such popular prices," insists Freeberg. "The homes are color-coordinated throughout, with hand-finished decorator cabinets and decorator-selected hardware. All utilities are underground, streets are engineered for child safety and 'you own the land' at Festival of Homes."

Yet another draw for homebuyers is the option Plan where buyers select such extras as double oven or self-cleaning electric ranges, patios, draperies, landscaping. These options are available either at the time of purchase or at a deferred date after purchase.

Always of primary concern to homebuyers, of course, is accessibility. This location is adjacent to all freeway interchanges (especially near the Santa Ana and Artesia Freeway network) and only 20 minutes from downtown Los Angeles or from the beach cities. "In fact," states Freeberg, "from Festival of Homes the freeway complex will put you within minutes of any Southern California locale for fine shopping centers and major industry as well as entertainment and recreation centers. Country Clubs and golf courses are minutes away without using the freeway."

While at the hub of excitement, Festival of Homes, La Palma still enjoys the quiet charm and college community atmosphere of this growing modern city. From Orange County, these homes can be reached by taking Orange County west to Walker; left on Walker to the homes. From Los Angeles County, take the Santa Ana Freeway to Valley View; south on Valley View to Orangeflorpe; west on Orangeflorpe to the models.

Married Students Get High Rises

There's a persistent chorus of protest on college campuses that is getting no attention from either "hawks" or "doves". It comes from countless tots who don't want to eat their spinach, drink their milk or go to bed on time. These young dissidents are, of course, the children of a growing number of married college students.

Dennis Hamilton Joins Dunn Corp

SANTA ANA — Relinquishing his own company, Dunn Properties Corporation of Santa Ana has recruited Dennis Hamilton, 36, of Palos Verdes as a vice president of the Marketing Division's Fountain Valley and Signal Hills-Long Beach industrial parks. Hamilton formerly operated Proposal Management Systems in Palos Verdes with prior service at United Aircraft Corporation.

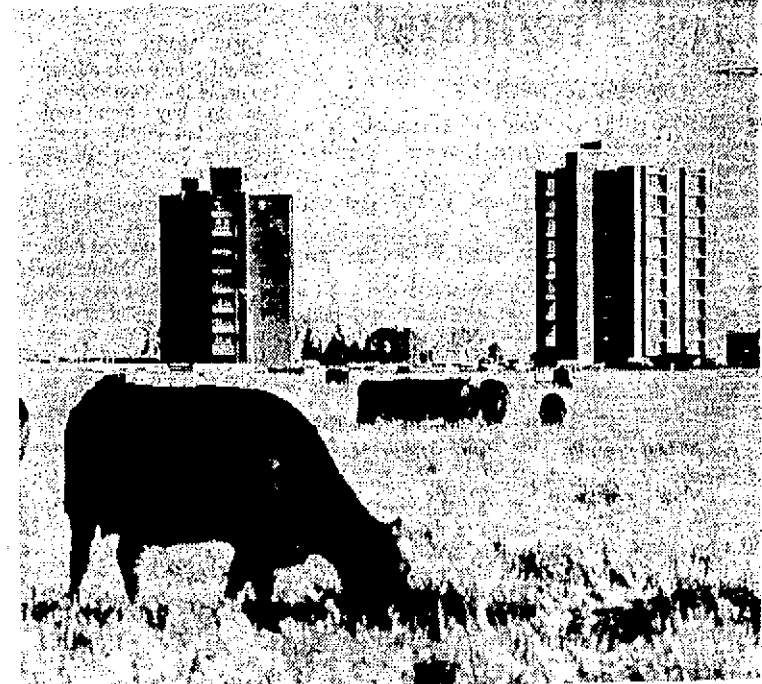

He is joining a firm with three million square feet of construction underway, 14 industrial parks in Southern California; plus additional interests in Texas. Dunn will soon branch out into enterprises in Atlanta, Ga., and has been increasing its staff in recent months to meet its increased activity.

The new Dunn member belongs to the American Managers Association, American Marketing Association, Air Force Association, and the South Bay Athletic Club where he is active in youth activities. Hamilton lives in Palos Verdes.

Not long ago, marriages among students were rare, and in some cases, prohibited by the college. Today, the married population on campuses across the country is large enough to merit extensive changes in campus facilities. The most obvious is on-site housing for student families.

One example of housing planned specifically for married students is at Montana State University. Twin nine-story structures, designed by architects Melver & Hess of Great Falls, rival high-rise urban apartments for contemporary styling, convenience and features such as balconies and paneled walls. An emphasis on beauty, comfort and "tenant" appeal is evident in the choice of windows — handsome maintenance-free casements used in a series of five to give panoramic views of the "big sky" country.

The windows are Andersen Perma-Shield units with vinyl-clad exterior sash and frames that do not require painting, and with welded insulating glass as a standard feature. The buildings' red brick and concrete facade, combined with these windows, presents a virtually maintenance-free exterior. To provide for the special needs of married students, campus housing is also providing extras that range from study halls for parents to play areas for children.

Economy Shifting

The structure of the economy is shifting away from the glamour areas of the 1960s to other fields, such as electric utilities, chemicals, natural gas, building, insurance, banks, tobacco, foods and perhaps retailers, the contrary investor says. Issues in these areas will be leaders in the current decade. Once interest sensitive and newly found defensive stocks have a play in the current market recovery, demand for cyclical will return, the firm says. It will take some time for secondary companies to join the parade, since these issues must present assurances of continued earnings growth, it adds.

Pistachio Growers Optimistic

Two major breakthroughs have put California into a position to challenge the world's pistachio nut producers.

Two Madera County men told the Council of California Growers they now have 1,000 acres planted to the distinctive green-hued nuts. Another 3,000 acres is planned.

Iran currently supplies about two-thirds of the annual 24 million pounds of pistachios imported through September, 1969. The U.S. production for the same period was about 100,000 pounds.

Donald L. Howard, vice president of field operations for American Agronomics, Pacific Division, said he developed the two cultural breakthroughs.

High mortality of young pistachio plants was previously common in "balling" the root stock seedlings for transplanting. Howard said a system of using two soft containers now permits the plants to be moved from the nursery to the field with little loss.

The seedlings now grow in a tiny peat cup. The sensitive tap root pushes through the container into a larger paper product pot. When about 28-inches high, the seedling is transplanted in the container right into the fields.

PORTS O' PROGRESS

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Marine Editor

LOCAL MARITIME INDUSTRIES are shouldering more of the financial burden to reduce pilferage and damage to cargo moving through the local port complex.

During the early days of the Cargo Protection Council of Southern California (circa 1965-66) cost of operation was borne equally by the Port of Los Angeles, the Port of Long Beach, and the local maritime industry.

Thursday a budget of $60,250 will be submitted to the board of directors of the council for approval.

The combined contribution of the two ports will amount to $15,000 or about one fourth of the total cost of operation for the fiscal year 1970-71.

Based on the volume of cargo moving through each of the two ports, Los Angeles will pay $8,250 representing 55 per cent of the $15,000 total contribution. Long Beach will contribute $6,750 or 45 per cent of the financial participation.

The remainder of the proposed budget, $45,250, will be financed by members of the maritime industries through contributions and assessments.

Aim of the council, according to Capt. Lewis Brown, executive administrator, is to combat pilferage and damage to cargo and equipment in ships and terminals on the local waterfront.

The NISSAN MOTOR CORP., U.S.A., importer of Datsun automobiles, will show off to members of the press Wednesday the company's new 22-acre Distribution and Auto Service facility in the Port of Los Angeles.

The complex, said to be the West's largest import car processing facility, was designed to make arriving vehicles ready for delivery to dealers in a five-state area served out of the Los Angeles region.

The facility is located at the foot of Wilmington Blvd. on B Street in the Wilmington section of the harbor.

LONG BEACH (UPI) — For the first time in its history, the United States may be facing a genuine shortage of energy, Chairman John E. Swearingen of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) said.

Swearingen told a meeting of the American Petroleum Industry, called to discuss oil imports and national security that how the United States resolves the oil imports problem may be of more far reaching consequences than all other present national problems. He said the present is no time to use imports to hold down oil prices and thus discourage domestic exploration and expansion of production of oil at home.

Dewindt said Eaton, Yale & Towne does not believe its purchase of McQuay-Norris, a maker of automotive engine parts, last year violated the anti-trust laws.

Santa Anans Find Water in Desert

SANTA ANA -- Something more precious than oil has been tapped beneath the Libyan Desert—water, enough, perhaps, to equal the flow of the Nile River for 1,000 years.

That is the estimate of J. R. Lester Boyle, president of the Santa Ana, Calif., firm of Boyle Engineering Company, whose engineers have returned from Libya after setting up an irrigation system for the newly-found water.

"The discovery site is in the southeastern corner of the Libyan Desert in the Administrative District of Benghazi, and the government is now studying plans for a highway straight to the Mediterranean Sea," Boyle said.

Boyle, who is also a consultant to the Municipal Water District of Orange County, said the water is trapped in a vast underground basin of some 1,000 square miles that probably spills over into Egypt. Although the origin of the water is still uncertain, it is believed to be replenished from the Tibesti Mountains of Chad on the southern border of Libya, Boyle said.

Test wells dug in the discovery area located the water in several depths ranging from 25 to 175 ft. below the surface of the sand.

"It is ironic to think of how many persons might have died of thirst there with water only 25 feet away from them, but straight down," said Boyle.

Oil was also found, which is the reason the wells were drilled in the first place, Boyle said.

The Occidental Petroleum Company acquired the oil concession in Libya and was making seismic explorations there, with a British firm sinking test wells. They were drilling through nubian sandstone when they hit the water level. Several test wells produced water and others struck oil.

"Occidental Petroleum called us in to evaluate the water content, estimate the volume and set up an irrigation system for a 10,000-acre demonstration farm and other farms in the area," Boyle related.

"We found that the water has a relatively high percentage of carbon dioxide which made it unfit unless aerated. Without aeration, the water would eat through asbestos-cement pipes into which the water would have to be pumped in order to use it," said Boyle.

But aerating the water presents no insurmountable problem, and Boyle engineers designed pumps and a ground-level aqueduct to provide the start of a water system that may turn the Libyan Desert into a huge oasis of lush farmland, Boyle said.

Boyle Engineering Company also has offices in Ventura and Las Vegas, Nevada. The firm, which conducts water development and investigations throughout the world, recently completed a water project in Bolivia.

Pacesetter Offers Parks, Recreation Westminster to Celebrate Centennial

Families considering the purchase of a home away from a big-city atmosphere will find Orange County's quiet community of Placentia an ideal recreation and living area, according to Landon M. Exley, vice president and general manager of Pacesetter Homes.

Pacesetter, which builds all its home in or near a recreational environment, opened its Placentia development last Fall in a prime location — within walking distance of two new city parks, an 18-hole golf course and a major shopping center. A total of 19 homes ranging in size from three to four bedrooms, and priced from $29,950, are still available, Exley said.

A successful recreation bond election in February assured six parks ready for use this summer and staffed by the city recreation and parks department.

As part of the program, the rural charm of hundreds of acres of orange orchards is being retained in bridle and hiking trails and by preservation of hillsides and ravines for family entertainment spots.

Scale models of the two nearest "natural parks" are on view in the Pacesetter model homes, just off Rose Drive at Valparaiso.

A half block from Pacesetter Homes is Parque del Arroyo Verde, a 4.4-acre site off the street known for its towering palms, Palm Drive, and across from Alta Vista Country Club. Using a wilderness theme, emphasis will be on camping and nature trails.

Included is a tiny tot play area, day camp and overnight camping spot for youth groups (by permit only). A tree-shaded family picnic area will feature barbecue pits and the center of attraction will be the ponds for wading, toy boating and fly casting.

Three blocks away from Pacesetter and adjacent to Van Buren Elementary School, which serves the home development, a larger park on 5.4-acres is being developed with an Early California theme.

Parque de los Vaqueros picnic area, spray pool for wading, an Indian Village, Fort and Pioneer Village play areas. In addition, two lighted tennis courts and two handball courts are planned.

In May, the city dedicated its 2-story community recreation building with meeting rooms, kitchen and portable stage at Kraemer Memorial Park. Another park, adjacent to the junior high school, boasts two more ball diamonds, four tennis courts and a complete gymnasium multipurpose building open for city residents.

Four model Pacesetter homes, with choices of exteriors, are on view daily until 6 p.m., an easy five minutes from two freeways, including the new proposed route of the Orange Freeway. Motorists should take the Riverside Freeway to the Jefferson turnoff then north to Orangeflorpe which changes to Rose Drive as it nears Pacesetter Placentia.

The 100th anniversary of the founding of the city of Westminster will be observed in a Centennial Fair and Exposition Oct. 7 through 11, announced Jim Evans, Centennial committee chairman. The five-day birthday celebration will be the largest Founder's Day event ever staged in Westminster.

The special observance of Westminster's first hundred years will be held in Sigler Park on Olive Street south of Westminster Blvd. More than 100,000 persons are expected to attend the family pageant which is being planned to kindle community spirit and focus county and state-wide attention on Westminster.

In conjunction with the city's Centennial, the Fair and Exposition will honor the State of California on its 200th Anniversary, Evans said. Commendations have been received by the city from the Orange County Board of Supervisors, the California State Senate and the California State Assembly.

PIONEER SPIRIT

Mrs. Wilma Casteig of Bellflower, executive secretary of Rancho Los Cerritos Board of Realtors, Bellflower, reports, "Ours was the first Southern California board to subscribe to a nationwide system of computerized multiple listings called Realtron through which we may offer our customers a larger selection of property and much faster than through conventional methods of locating property." Here she uses the touch tone telephone equipment provided by General Telephone Co. which links her office with the Detroit-based Realtron computer.

FUTURE PARKS

Miniatures of the two city parks within walking distance of the new Pacesetter Placentia Homes are on view at the model home. Neighborhood children Sherri and Janet Cole anxiously await landscaping completion by end of the summer.

Country Estates, Orange, Offers Buccola Complex

GOLD KEY KITCHEN

Wide, spacious kitchen and family area are among the reasons the Buccola Co.'s Country Estates were awarded the Gold Key by General Electric.

Qualified veterans can move into Country Estates in Orange for only a $1 total move-in costs. The concept is featured as the grand opening begins for the second unit of the Buccola-built complex.

"The sales on the first unit have done well and we hope that our second unit meets with as much public response and reaction," Buccola said.

The builder also commented on the unusual financing program which allows veterans to move for only $1 including down payment and all impounds and costs.

"We know many vets don't have enough money to make a sizeable down payment so we are allowing them to move into our homes with only a single dollar moving-in cost as good faith money," Buccola said.

The builder said he is anxious to help men who have served their country and he thought the best thing he could do would be to help the veterans find a home they could enjoy. These homes were awarded the Hotpoint Gold Key Award by General Electric. This is only the third time in six years the award has been made.

The three and four bedroom homes, priced from $31,350 can also be financed through FHA and conventional methods. All homes also have either two or three baths.

New Firm Formed by Aerojet

Aerojet Ordnance and Manufacturing Company, as a division of Aerojet-General, will provide research, development and production of ordnance equipment and manufacture of metal hardware for various applications.

Paul R. Holmes, veteran Aerojet executive, has been named president of the new company.

The new organization includes ordnance research and development facilities in Downey and Chino Hills, an ordnance production plant in Batesville, Ark., and extensive manufacturing facilities in Fullerton.

'Gourmet Kitchen' Featured at the Colony

A "Gourmet Kitchen," complete with walk-in wine cellar, is one of the special highlights of Wm. Lyon's The Colony at Irvine which is now celebrating its grand opening. The builder, whose company is the world-wide real estate subsidiary of American Standard Inc., says this is the first time a true gourmet kitchen has been available in volume housing. Homes begin at $28,995 with VA-FHA and Conventional financing.

"With the interest in gourmet food today," Lyon explained, "we feel the homebuyer who enjoys cooking as a hobby is in for a special treat. We have obtained the best kitchen design consultation we felt was available, that of gourmet author, Chef and TV food personality, Mike Roy.

"The kitchen combines professional restaurant efficiency with architectural glamour," Lyon continued. "We feel it marks the first major change in a kitchen since the 'Garden Kitchen' was introduced several years ago."

The Gourmet Kitchen has been designed to include as many, or as few, of the special gourmet items as the homebuyer might like to have. In the basic price there is a bricked electric barbecue center, self-cleaning oven range, dishwasher and disposal.

Optionally, the buyer has a choice of an 8-foot "Gourmet Island" work center, which has a chop block top, plus a fully detachable roll-around chopping block at one end. The roll-around block allows the cook to have complete mobility in the kitchen and can bring the block right next to the stove where he or she may chop vegetables or meat and put directly into the pan on the stove.

Additionally, this "Gourmet Island" has a row of overhead pot racks, 12 shelves for spices, built-in knife holders, a library for cookbooks, and even a place to tack up recipes you might cut from magazines or newspapers. A blackboard on one side is for writing grocery list. There are several large drawers for serving pieces, plus see-through vegetable storage bins, towel racks and electrical outlets to enable the cook to use appliances right at the "Gourmet Island."

Other "Gourmet" options include a Chevalier's wine cellar. This is a full size walk-in cellar right in the kitchen. Too, the homebuyer can choose a Versatronic electronic oven and the Ronson "Foodmatic" which is built into the sink and cupboards.

Lyon has worked with representatives of his parent company, American Standard, to design what he calls the "Bathing Pool." It is a new 4 1/2 by 6-foot fiberglass bathing tub which is included in several of the five floor plans being offered.

Berry Berkus has designed the 1 and 2-story, 2 to 4-bedroom homes, all of which have six foot high masonry walls. The walls offer total yard privacy for families who want to enjoy the building concept which places the home on one side of the lot line. By placing the home on lot line it eliminates wasted small side yards and gives the homeowner fuller use of all his property.

An unusual land plan was conceived for "The Colony," which has only one through street running through the entire 475 home community. There will be, upon completion of the entire project, 50 landscaped "mini-park" islands scattered throughout the homes. These islands are in the center of the cul-de-sacs in front of the homes.

All Colony homeowners automatically become members of The Colony

Club, the community's centrally-located recreation center which will include clubhouse, Olympic-sized swimming pool and separate wading pool, tennis courts and other sports facilities.

The model homes, furnished by Virginia Douglas and Associates, are reached via the Santa Ana and San Diego Freeways to the Culver Rd. exit in Irvine. The sales pavilion and model complex is located at 3572 So. Mall, Irvine.

Outdoor Recreation

A cash allowance of $275 for landscaping has been announced as a closeout special on unit one of Pacesetter Homes at The Ranch in Orange County, announces Landon M. Exley, vice president and general manager.

Nine houses are available under the closeout plan with immediate possession. Homes are now being offered in the second unit with the third group of homes in the rural community nearing completion.

Rows upon rows of gigantic eucalyptus trees, planted many years ago, have been retained and prove a popular drawing card to The Ranch, nestled among orange groves. Backyards big enough for pools feature pass-through kitchen windows — a trademark of Pacesetter Homes.

The secluded privacy of the residential area, away from congestion with room to breathe, is just seconds from the San Diego and Santa Ana Freeways, minutes from the ocean and less than an hour from downtown Los Angeles.

Three and four bedroom homes, from $28,450 to $33,950, in the Pacesetter tradition of homebuilding excellence are located at the Jeffrey Road turn-off the Santa Ana Freeway, in the Tustin area, five minutes beyond its intersection with the Newport Freeway.

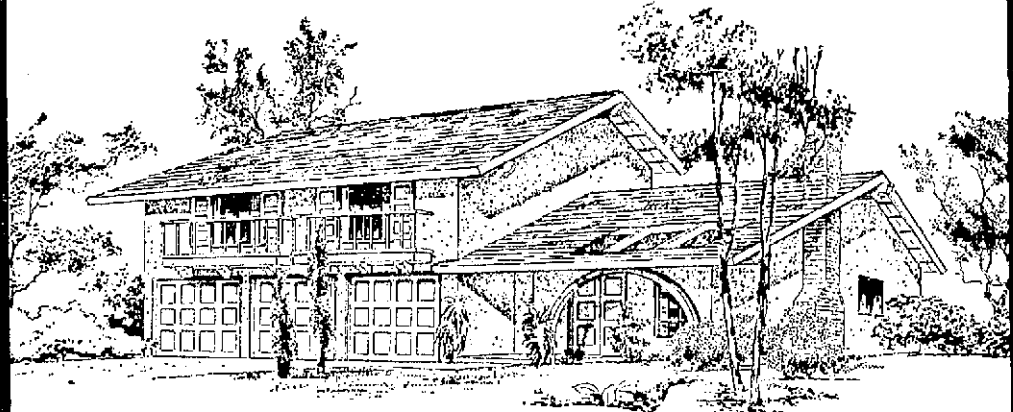

COUNTRY CLUB HOSPITAL

The formal opening of the new Country Club Manor and Convalescent Hospital, 4010 Virginia Road, will be held Sunday. The 83-bed facility, fully air-conditioned and equipped with fire sprinklers, was designed by George Kirkpatrick and built by the Larry Jahns Construction Co. A home-like environment is stressed in the luxury accommodation.

Firm Helps Boatmen Build Own Yachts

DO-IT-YOURSELF BOAT

Special tool used by Ernie Nelleman of Romack Marine speeds tie-down of reinforcing rods in hull of ferro-cement 46-foot sailboat. Long Beach firm offers detailed plans for the do-it-yourselfer to build his own cement-hulled yacht. Company claims the amateur builder can save up to half the cost of commercially marketed craft of comparable size.

By JACK BALDWIN
Marine Editor

A Long Beach firm is now marketing step-by-step plans to help the do-it-yourselfer build his own ferro cement yacht at approximately half the cost of a comparable commercial-built craft.

Ernie Nelleman, vice president of Romack Marine, 2125 Gaylord St., claims a 46-foot yacht which would cost $50,000 from a dealer can be built of ferro cement by a person even with limited craftsman's skills for approximately $20,000 to $25,000.

The technique of using steel and cement as hull material has been gaining rapidly in popularity in recent years among commercial boat builders.

However, the backyard builder has had difficulty learning the technique that would enable him to build his own cement-covered, steel re-enforced hull.

The package offered by Romack includes detailed construction plans as well as written instructions. Available also are full-sized plans to guide the builder in forming the craft's ribs.

Nelleman claims the average man and wife working full time and aided by a helper, perhaps a son, can build the hull of a 46-foot ketch in as little as three months.

He claims a ferro cement hull has many advantages over other types of material. He points out it has no seams to open and leak. It is impervious to rust and corrosion and attack by teredo worms. It is not subject to dry rot and is not affected by ultra-violet rays as are some forms of polyester materials.

"Cement is a good insulator, warm in winter, cool in summer," Nelleman points out.

The company currently has a 46-footer under construction at 1590 Hays Ave. Today and Sunday company officials will hold an open house to demonstrate to prospective boat builders the methods employed in building a ferro cement craft. Hours are 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

The company is currently offering eight different plans ranging from a 36-foot ketch sleeping five up to a 46-foot ketch sleeping eight.

A complete set of plans cost $350. The company offers a set of study plans for $8.

Newspaper Readership About 80%

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Core cities of the 50 largest metropolitan areas have continued to maintain levels of newspaper readership comparable to the rest of the country despite the concentration of poverty pockets, ghettos and urban blight occurring in the largest population centers, according to the Bureau of Advertising.

Overall, 78 per cent of all adults 18 years and older and 80 per cent of adults in the 50 largest metropolitan areas read a daily newspaper on the average weekday. Average day readership by adults in the central cities of the 50 largest metropolitan areas comes to 79 per cent. In core cities all over the country, average day readership is 81 per cent.

These figures are based on a study by W. R. Simmons & Associates Research, Inc. The study also found:

"People are interested in larger homes and are coming to see our development. The homes range up to 2,270 square feet of living area and provide the space for a family to enjoy. Five decorator-furnished models are available for everyone to see," Solomon, added.

WITH 13-GAME GAP, EVEN HOUDINI WON'T HELP What Race? Reds Foil Dodgers

George (Sparky) Anderson, Cincinnati's first-year pilot, is something of a diplomat, all right.

He looks at the Reds' giant lead in the National League West and says, "We haven't talked much about the pennant. We've got some tough games with the Dodgers. We've been struggling a little lately and I guess we've been pointing for the Dodgers."

If the lead was, say, two or three games Sparky's words might make pretty good listening.

But it's now a 13-game advantage after Cincinnati's stirring come-from-behind 4-2 victory over the Dodgers before 35,701 Dodger Stadium customers Friday.

It'll take an earthquake — maybe two earthquakes — to blow a lead like that. But Sparky isn't figuring his pennant purse just yet although he may as well.

"We've got a great schedule," he went on. "No makeups or any of that. We could actually go through September with three pitchers if we have to."

It's the thinking around the league the Reds can go through September and maybe even October, too, on a song.

It's 13 games and, even more startling, Cincinnati needs to win but 39 more games — or the Dodgers lose 39 — to wrap it up. It's called the Magic Number in some circles but the Dodgers, it appears, are going to need more than Houdini.

The Dodgers' skipper, Walter Alston, looks at the "race" altogether different. Quiet characteristically, he remarked, "It's now 13 games? Well, the way I look at it, if we win 13 more games than the Reds, then we tie. Right? And if we win 14 more we win. Right?"

Right on both counts, skip.

But the Reds are refusing to wilt or even so much as stagger. When the Dodgers win, the Reds win. When the Dodgers lose, the Reds lose, too — but not often enough and as one Cincinnati player said, "Race? I didn't know there was one."

Friday night Joe Moeller pitched well, holding a 2-1 lead into the eighth. But the Reds, who've roared from behind 33 previous times this season, snickered at the one-run deficit and moments later Lee May rocked Moeller and the Dodgers with a bases-loaded double and Cincinnati posted its fourth consecutive win without a loss at the Big O.

"We've come from behind all year," said the instigator, Pete Rose, the man they call Charlie Hustle. "It used to be a three-run lead was pretty good in the eighth inning but not anymore."

Wes Parker singled in a run in the first inning and Tom Haller homered in the second. The Reds' Johnny Bench then smashed his 38th homer in the fourth inning and it remained 2-1 until the eighth.

First, Bobby Tolan after fouling off an even dozen pitches, singled and stole second. Then Tony Perez, hitting nine fouls into the seats, drew a walk and Moeller was suddenly in trouble for the first time all night.

"Tolan really took it out of me," Moeller admitted later, "and then Perez. It was all I could do to go back and get anything on the ball after that."

Then with Bench at the plate, Tolan and Perez were running as the Cincinnati catcher hit a grounder to shortstop. Ordinarily it's a doubleplay ball but this time the Reds had runners at second and third. The Dodgers walked Bernie Carbo intentionally and then May hit his liner down the leftfield line for two runs and a 3-2 lead.

Tommy Helms finished it with a sacrifice fly that scored Carbo.

In the ninth the Reds suffered a costly loss when ace reliever Clay Carroll, who wound up with his eighth win, was spiked by Maury Wills on a play at first base.

It was a nasty wound, very deep on the right ankle, and it will sideline Carroll for perhaps two weeks.

Anderson hinted Jim Maloney, who was hurt in a game with the Dodgers in June, might return from the disabled list early. He

Angel Overhaul Ruins Big White Machine Bow

DON MERRY
Staff Writer

CHICAGO — The wooden sign sitting in the far corner of the dugout and the lettering on the vintage '29 Model A Ford that spits noise and fire proclaim the new image of the Chicago White Sox.

Both read, "The Big White Machine."

Unhappily for customers on Chicago's near South Side, there is little resemblance between the White Sox and baseball's other mechanical monster in Cincinnati.

The White Machine is held together by elastic bands and smudges of glue. It does not purr but sputters. It does not strike fear into its opponents but invites mockery.

The Angels defeated the White Machine, 6-4, Friday night and the final touch of irony was in the name of the losing pitcher.

He was Danny Murphy, the man who coined the name "Big White Machine" two weeks ago.

Eddie Fisher, appearing for the 13th time in 17 games, retired seven of the eight men he faced and was rewarded with his fourth win.

Two runs in the eighth inning, the result of vigorous baserunning by Sandy Alomar and Ken McCormick, darkened the evening for 30,123 curious on-lookers who attended the official unveiling of the Big White Machine.

There haven't been that many people in the lonely, old stadium all season even though 15,145 got in gratis through the courtesy of local radio personality Franklyn McCormack.

ANGEL OF DAY
EDDIE FISHER pitched 2½ hitless innings in relief as Angels clipped White Sox, 6-4.

The revived old Model A, the pride of the White Sox players Bill Melton, Ed Herrmann and Syd O'Brien, predictably generated more sparks while it circled the field prior to the game than the Sox did once proceedings got under way.

Chicago managed a meager five hits and only eight walks, three wild pitches and a pair of hit batsmen kept them in contention.

But the Sox are deadly serious about their new image.

"We're involved in the tightest race in baseball," said Murphy earnestly, referring to the war of the have-nots in the depths of the AL West involving the Sox, Milwaukee and Kansas City.

"Anything that will pick up the club is fine with me," echoed Tom McCraw.

Actually, the White Sox have become pillars of mediocrity since Murphy got his brainstorm. They have won nine of their last 19 and Friday's setback snapped a three-game winning streak.

It also kept the tattered Angels eight games in arrears of the Twins.

"We've still got a little life and a little hope," droned manager Lefty Phillips, "but it's going to take a landslide of Minnesota losses for us to catch them."

California's biggest break came when 20-year-old Bart Johnson developed a blister on his pitching hand and left after six innings, during which time he allowed two runs and four hits while striking out seven.

Murphy failed to hold a 3-2 lead. He allowed Jim Spencer to single before Roger Repoz boomed his 12th home run, Luis Aparicio's double, two hit batsmen and a wild pitch led to Chicago's tying run in the seventh before Alomar and McMullen dazzled the Sox with their footwork.

Alomar opened the eighth with a walk and Bill Voss singled to chase Murphy.

When Jim Fregosi, playing despite an ailing back,

REGAN NEW COACH IN KINGS' SHAKEUP

Owner Jack Kent Cooke, frankly unhappy with the "deterioration" of the Kings, shook up the chain of command Friday in a move that made Larry Regan the coach as well as general manager of the National Hockey League team.

In the shuffle, Johnny Wilson, who took over as coach of the Kings in mid-December, returns to the club's farm team at Springfield, Mass., as general manager-coach of the American Hockey League outfit.

Jimmy Anderson, who replaced Wilson at Springfield, becomes the Kings' first full-time scout under the chief scout, George Maguire.

"From a flying start in the Kings' first year in Los Angeles, the club's record has deteriorated. The second year was only fair; last year's was bad," Cooke said.

Regan played with the Boston Bruins of the NHL — he was the NHL rookie of the year and Calder Trophy winner in 1956 — and the Toronto Maple Leafs.

"The Kings will be a contending club in 1970-71," Regan declared. "And by contending, I mean we will be in the playoffs. What's more, we will start out in good shape and we will win from the start; and we'll win on the road — something we have never been able to do before."

"I intend to lift the Kings from the sad last-place finish to an exciting, contending team that will be the talk of the National Hockey League. It's been done before. The Chicago Black Hawks did it last year and the Kings are going to do it in this upcoming season."

Rams Favored by 7 in Browns' Joust

By AL LARSON
Staff Writer

With only eight workouts under their belts, the Rams engage the Cleveland Browns in their pre-season opener tonight at the Coliseum at 8:30. Fortunately, the Browns are working under the same handicap because of the player strike last week.

Having received summer school diplomas from Cal State Long Beach and a four-day cram course at Fullerton, the Rams will take their first Masters' examination against the Browns who will represent the new American Football Conference.

The betting line favors the Rams by seven points which may be due in large measure to coach George Allen who has not lost an exhibition opener since taking over as head coach five years ago. The crowd is expected to exceed 75,000.

The starting quarterbacks, Roman Gabriel for the Rams and Bill Nelsen for the Browns, are expected to give way to replacements by the time the second quarter rolls around.

Last year Allen and Browns' coach Blanton Collier had an agreement to play only rookies in the second period. Allen said Friday "I may play my regulars only the first quarter. I can't take a chance on them getting hurt with such limited work this week because of the strike." However, if the game is close you can bet George will have his first unit back in harness.

Nelsen will be replaced by Don Gault of Hofstra, a taxi squad member for the past two years. Collier also wants to get a look-see at Mike Phipps, No. 1 draft choice from Purdue, also at quarterback.

Rookie Ted Provost of the Rams, who starred in the College All-Star contest at defensive back, once intercepted two of Phipps' passes when Ohio State upset Purdue. He's anxious for another crack at Phipps.

The Browns can call on a devastating running attack featuring Leroy Kelly while the Rams will counter with Les Josephson, Mike Dennis, Jeff Jordan and Jimmy Thomas. Tommy Mason, Willie Ellison and Larry Smith probably will be held out.

The Browns will present the same starting lineup that won the Eastern Conference championship last year with two exceptions. Pair Hooker, a former Monrovia High School ace who holds the 120-yard high hurdles mark of 13.8 at Arizona State, starts at left end in place of the departed Paul Warfield and Joe Taffoni will operate at right tackle now that Monty Clark has retired.

Daniel F. Reeves, the man who pioneered pro football in Southern California, will be honored at halftime as the Rams begin their silver anniversary season.

PRO-D-RAMA: Leroy Kelly's younger brother Pat is a regular outfielder with Kansas City. Richie Pettibon has 42 career interceptions, cranking live for the Rams last year. Don Cockrell's 45 extra points for the Browns led the NFL last year. Gary Collins has his own daily sports show in Wolloughby, Ohio.

Notre Dame is well represented on the Rams roster. Jim Seymour, Jack Snow, Joe Seibell, John Pergine and Myron Pattios, are former Fighting Irish.

Kerm Alexander checked into Ram camp Friday, but since he hasn't worked out it's doubtful he'll play. With Larry Smith, bothered by a sprained ankle, Mike Dennis or Jeff Jordan probably will start. Pat Studdstill and Ollie Cordell will share the punting while David Ray will handle all of the PAT and field goal duties.

The heir-apparent to Bruce Gossett's job has been nicknamed "Boomer Jr." by Jack Snow. Ray said: "I'll be nervous up to the moment I hit someone or someone hits me on the opening kickoff." Ray swam at UC Riverside and Don Martin of Washington are Ram kickers.

Roger Brown tipped the scales literally at 334 Friday. He's drawn a double time for being three days late and 50 pounds overweight. He won't be allowed to practice with the team until he hits Allen's prescribed weight of 300.

3 HARBOR EVENTS SET; SKIING AT STADIUM

Festival Bills Big Weekend

Three major events in Long Beach Harbor and a world record water ski speed attempt at Marine Stadium mark activity this weekend in the fifth California International Sea Festival.

At Marine Stadium, all-time great Chuck Stearns of Bellflower will try to reach 130 mph through the measured quarter-mile during the World Water Ski Drag Championships beginning today at 10 a.m. Admission is $3, with youngsters under 12 free. Women's speed record attempts, barefoot drag racing and men's eliminations featuring Tim Guckes of Gardena are also scheduled.

Over 250 members of California Outrigger Assn. representing four member clubs stage their State Championships starting at 10 a.m. at the Junipero Ave. beach area of the harbor shoreline, and the harbor also will be the battleground for the second Australian 10-Footer International Challenge sailing regatta.

Two visiting Australian teams will sail against four Southern California groups in the event featuring the swift, exotic dinghy class developed in Sydney Harbor nearly 100 years ago. The craft may weigh no more than 140 pounds.

Races are scheduled at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. today and Sunday. Entrants are C. P. Air and C. B. Electrics of Australia, skippered by Bob Monkhouse and Rob Shore; Roger Welsch of Newport Beach, U.S. Travelodge; Bob Kettenhoffen of Newport, Kettenhoffen Sails; Tim Hogan of Newport, Daily Telegraph, with former Prince of Wales Cup winner Burke Sawyer among his three crewmen; and Ray Lopez of Long Beach, is Sunday's annual Grand Caravela.

The fourth harbor event is Sunday's annual Grand National Catalina Ski Race, a non-stop water ski sprint from Long Beach to Avalon Harbor and back. As many as 40 top men skiers and 20 gals are expected to line up for the 8 a.m. start near the Queen's Way Bridge and Reef Restaurant in the western end of the harbor.

BEARD POSTS BLAZING 65

Shaw, Archer Classic Leaders

AKRON (UPI) — Young Tom Shaw fired a four-under-par 66 Friday to tie George Archer at 136 for the lead at the halfway point of the American Golf Classic.

Shaw, a fun-loving 27-year-old from Milwaukee, Ore., rattled off seven birdies and had three bogies over the 7,180-yard Firestone Country Club course, getting two of his birdies on the last three holes — en route to 32 on backside.

Archer, the first-round leader, shot a 69 Friday and said he was "a little shaky coming in." He holed several medium-range putts to save pars.

The best round of the day was turned in by Frank Beard, who posted a five-under-par 65 on the 35-35-70 Firestone layout, only one shot off the record.

Bruce Crampton turned his second consecutive sub-par round, a 68 and stands alone in 137.

Beard, who had a 73 opening round score, was tied with Tommy Aaron at 138. Defending champion Raymond Floyd, Julius Boros and Tommy Jacobs were deadlocked at 139.

Aaron, Floyd and Boros had 69s Friday and Jacobs a 71.

Both Beard and Shaw told of help they had received in the last week, Shaw from a club pro in his home town and Beard from his wife, who he said "doesn't know a golf ball from a ping-pong ball."

"She'll say something like 'You didn't use to move your knees that way.' She doesn't know what she's saying," Beard said. "But she's watched me putt so much, she knows it's not right. She's very observant."

Shaw, who greeted newsmen with, "I haven't seen you guys in quite a while," got help from club pro Howard Bonar of the Waverly Country Club at Milwaukee, a suburb of Portland.

Shaw said he flew home after missing the cut in last week's Westchester Classic and Bonar was able to straighten him out. Most of his trouble, he said, was in his grip.

"I was hitting them short and crooked," Shaw said. "You all know you can't win that way."

Jack Nicklaus shot back into contention with a three-under-par 67, giving him a two-round total of 140, the same as Gary Player, who had a two-under 68 Friday.

When reminded when he had said Thursday he would play better in the second round, Nicklaus said, "I didn't know I would score any better than I did in the first round but I had to play better. I couldn't be any worse."

'MY SWAN SONG' SAYS VENTURI

AKRON (UPI) — "This is my swan song," said U.S. Open winner Ken Venturi as he pulled out of the American Golf Classic Friday. Venturi said he would never enter another tournament unless doctors can cure his aching hands.

"I'm tired of humiliation," Venturi, 39, of San Francisco, said after carding an 80 over the Firestone Country Club course.

"I'll never play another competitive round," he said. "I can't swing a stick and until they (doctors) can do something about it, until they said I'm cured, I've had it."

Venturi has won 14 tournaments in his career, including the U.S. Open and the American Golf Classic six years ago.

He said he had "no feel" in his hands.

Dr. Walter Hoyt of Akron has scheduled operations on Venturi's hands in the early fall.

Pam Leads Carling by Scant 2 Strokes

ATLANTA (AP) — Pam Barnett, still seeking her first victory in four years on the tour, fired a three-under-par 70 Friday and took a two-stroke lead after the first round of the $20,000 Lady Carling golf tournament.

Miss Barnett, a tiny golfer from Charlotte, N.C., scored four birdies and one bogey on the 6,800 yard Indian Hills Country Club, a par 37-36-73 layout with narrow fairways.

Marlyn Smith was second with a 30-34-72, only other player to break par as scores soared for most of the lady professionals.

Miss Barnett, a brunette who wears a frosted wig because "I like to throw it when I get mad," knocked in a 25-foot uphill birdie putt on the 175-yard third hole, sank a 15-footer for a birdie two on No. 7 and tapped in shorter putts for birdies on Nos. 8 and 10.

Her only bogey came on the 505-yard 14th where she sent her drive into the trees bordering the left fairway and later landed in a bunker on her approach shot to the green.

Mando Looking for Title Rematch With Laguna

The 21-year-old from Long Beach racked up a bloody, brutal 10-round split decision over Ultimo (Sugar) Ramos of Mexico City Thursday night.

"It's gotta be Laguna, who else?" said Mando's co-manager, Jackie McCoy, responding to news-men asking who Mando will fight next.

Edles Doubles Team Defeated by No. 1 Seeds

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (UPI) — Top-seeded John Whittinger, Neenah, Wis., and Fred DeJesus, San Truce, Puerto Rico, defeated No. 4 seeded Joe Edles of Long Beach and R and Elvett of Palos Verdes, 2-6, 9-7, 7-5, in boys doubles semifinals of the U.S. National junior tennis championships Friday.

In junior doubles, top-seeded Jim Connors, Belle-ville, Ill., and Bob Kreiss, Los Angeles, topped Gary Grosdimond, Lafayette, Calif., and Paul Sidone, Pebble Beach, 6-3, 6-3.

Connors, also No. 1 seed in singles, defeated Raul Ramirez, La Jolla, 6-2, 6-2.

DUTCH WALKS AWAY AFTER SLOPPY PLAY

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. (UPI) — Coach Norm Van Brocklin walked off the practice field Friday afternoon, not pleased with what he had seen in a scrimmage session which stressed work with the Atlanta Falcons' backfield.

"It was pretty sloppy play," Van Brocklin said. "But Gipsen ran well."

Paul Gipsen had a disappointing rookie season last year and was late reporting to camp this week. But Gipsen was the only name Van Brocklin mentioned when pressed for details about the workout.

"The offense was poor, sloppy, irregular. The defense just handled them," Van Brocklin said.

"The only thing that looked decent was Gipsen's running."

Lakewood's Dusan Gets Promotion

Former Lakewood High catcher Gene Dusan has been promoted to Triple A ball this week in the Oakland A's farm system.

Dusan, hitting .270, jumped from Birmingham of the Southern League to Des Moines of the American Assn. He is in his third year as a pro.

Baker to Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Baker, 23-year-old shortstop with Syracuse of the International League, was recalled Friday by the New York Yankees who placed the veteran Ron Hansen on the disabled list for 21 days because of a pulled hamstring muscle.

Bastanchury Helps U.S. to Early Curtis Cup Lead

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Former National Intercollegiate queen Jane Bastanchury set the tempo and eight-time Indiana champion Mrs. Paul Dye capped a tremendous team comeback Friday as the United States took a 5½-3½ lead over the British Isles in the 16th Curtis Cup golf matches.

Stung by a personal defeat as the Britons surprisingly won two of three morning Scotch foursome matches, Miss Bastanchury opened the singles action with a 5 and 3 triumph over English amateur champion Diah Oxley.

Then, in the sixth and final singles match of the day, Mrs. Dye won the last three holes for a 1-up decision over Julia Greenhalgh.

The Americans won four of the head-to-head duels and halved another at Brae Burn Country Club.

Ireland's Mary McKenna, 20, who teamed with Miss Oxley for a four-some match victory, managed to escape the American onslaught, rallying on the back nine for a 4 and 2 triumph over Tish Preuss, appearing in Curtis Cup play for the fifth time.

Other American winners were Martha Wilkinson, 21, of Fullerton, Calif., and Nancy Hager 17, of Dallas, Miss Wilkinson beat Ann Irvin, 1-up.

Miss Hager had little trouble in sweeping past five-time English international champion Margaret Pickard, 5 and 4. England's Belle Robertson rallied to win the last three holes for a standoff with Shelley Hamlin, 21, of Fresno.

In the morning foursomes, Misses Oxley and McKenna defeated Misses Bastanchury and Hamlin 4-2, and Miss Greenhalgh and Mary Everard whipped Cynthia Hill of South Haven, Mich., and Jana Fassinger of New Wilmington, Pa., 5 and 3. Misses Preuss and Wilkinson defeated Mrs. Robertson and Miss Irvin 4 and 3.

Arnold Palmer
"ATHLETE OF THE DECADE"

MAKE BIG TURN, SHORT BACKSWING

The backswing should produce a full coiling of your big muscles and maximum control of the club. In other words, you should seek a big shoulder turn and a short backswing (see main illustration). Never feel that you must make a long backswing. This only leads to loose wrists and loss of club control (smaller illustration). The modern professional usually makes a full 90° shoulder turn, yet seldom reaches a horizontal clubshaft position during his backswing. At the top you should feel tension across your back and down your left side. Your hands and wrists should feel "frozen" to the club itself.

SoCal Connie Mack Playoffs Begin Today

The Southern California Connie Mack championships begin today at 10 a.m. with four games scheduled for Blair Field.

In the opener, the Bellflower Giants, who represented this region in the Connie Mack World's Series last year, meet Mary Star of San Pedro.

At 12:30 p.m., Warren Anderson of Riverside will play the Village Deli. of Glendale, each team a district winner.

In the 3 p.m. game La Puente will meet Monterey Park while Bickel Braves of Long Beach play Norwalk in the 5:30 p.m. contest.

The tournament will continue with three games Sunday beginning at 4 p.m. and single games Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 7 p.m.

The winner and runner-ups of the four districts will compete with the district losses counting for the second place teams. The winner will advance into the Regional tournament beginning Friday at Blair Field.

Hawaiian Gardens, winner of the hosting Coast League and Santa Clara, representing Northern California, have already qualified for regional play,

Be Wary of Hot Football Practices Warns Doctor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dr. Donald Cooper, chairman of the NCAA committee on competitive safeguards and medical aspects of sports, Friday cautioned all those college football players to be wary of the hot, humid weather conditions during the month of August.

During hot, humid weather, fluid replacement can be a life and death matter," Cooper said. "Every single heat death could have been prevented if proper precautions had been taken. Over the last few years, we have made great strides in alerting all people in athletics to the necessity of supplying ad-equat fluid and salt, but it will be especially important to be aware of heat problems this year."

Cooper, team physician at Oklahoma State, said that natural citrus and fruit juices and plenty of water should be administered to the players. He also advised that the football players be given breaks every 20 to 30 minutes and at that time should rest in the shade and drink adequate amounts of fluids.

"Weighing players daily before and after practice can help to show who needs the greatest amount of fluid replaced," Cooper said.

Go Derussa Go Headlines Los Alamitos Field Tonight

By DAVE DANIEL Staff Writer

It's the middle of a heat wave and therefore a good time to think cooling thoughts.

One way to beat the heat is to take in the quarter horse card at Los Alamitos Race Course tonight.

Go Derussa Go has been just steps behind Kaweah Bar and Top Rockette in her latest outings.

In 1969, she won $83,850 and the championship of the track. In five starts this year, she has won only once, losing twice to Kaweah Bar and twice to Top Rockette.

The task still isn't an easy one with a full field of 10 entered. Go Derussa Go prefers longer races and will be hard pressed to get up in the short distance.

Tuff Boss, third in the Barbara B. Purse recently and Double Dibs, also a winner already at the track, figure as the most formidable opposition along with Dividend's Bar, which has won his last four outings.

Whataway To Go, as expected, captured the first Division of the Derby Trials Friday night, but Buxom 2 was an upset winner over Miss Three Wars in the second heat to determine the 10 horses to go in next week's $84,500 Los Alamitos Derby.

Whataway To Go had a little trouble getting underway at the start of the first but by the time the race was halfway over, she pulled even with the leader, Drucila.

From that point on, the Go Man Go filly pulled away to win by a half-length over Rica's Gold and Blondy Rockette, being clocked in 22 seconds for 440 yards.

Bel down to 1-2 in the wagering by a crowd of 12,774, Whataway To Go paid $3, $2.60 and $2.20 across the board.

8 Vie in Del Mar Feature

Turf Specialists

Spotlighted Today

Front-running Neurologo, an impulsive but talented performer from Argentina, will carry high weight of 120 pounds against seven rivals today in the $22,050 Escondido Handicap at Del Mar.

The 1 1/2-mile turf event will highlight an outstanding nine-race program that includes a pair of races for three-year-olds pointing for the Del Mar Derby.

Neurologo, who will have leading rider Bill Maherney in the saddle, is the probable favorite in the Escondido, but strong support is expected for Fleet Surprise, California and Makor. Eager Eagle, Duffer and the entry of Contratos and Cougar II complete the lineup.

Swift Savage, a winner in 1:08 4-5 two weeks ago, and Oceandine Handicap runner-up Terra Berry head the opposition for D'Artagnan in the sixth race. Just Future, Sugar Loaf and Colorado Kid are in the field for the fifth race, a 1 1/16-mile turf event.

The first half-mile of the Escondido 'Cap will be the crucial part of the race for Neurologo, for he has often shown a tendency to squander his brilliant speed in the opening furlongs. Maherney was able to conserve him in several races at Hollywood Park, including the Hollywood Gold Cup in which he was second to Pleasure Seeker, but he has proven difficult to rate in two starts at Del Mar.

Record-seeking Bill Shoemaker piloted Conviving Princess to an easy victory Friday in the $13,900 Junior Miss Stakes, recording his 5,998th riding triumph.

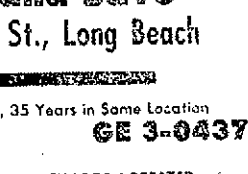

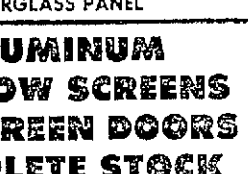

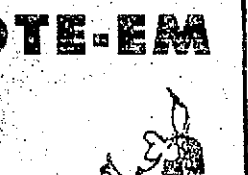

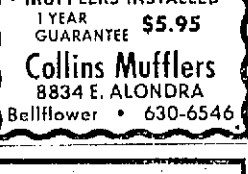

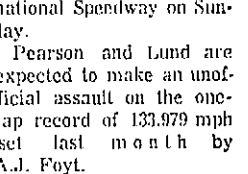

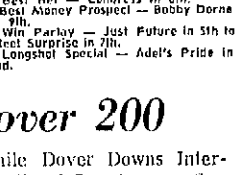

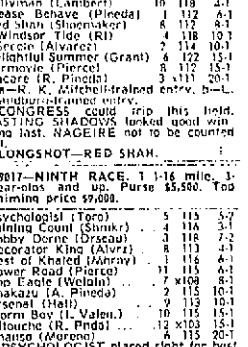

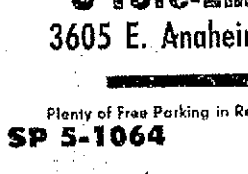

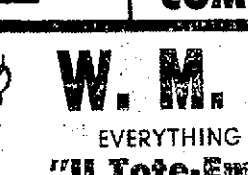

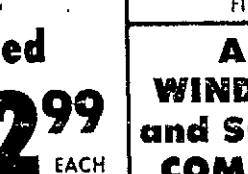

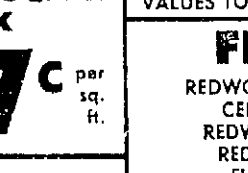

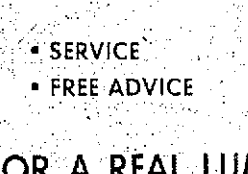

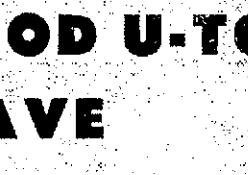

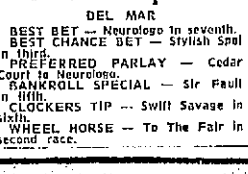

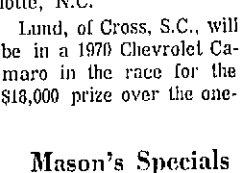

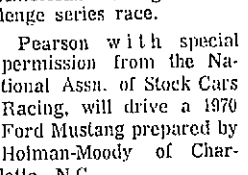

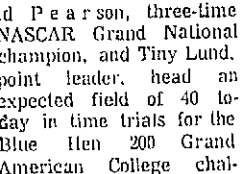

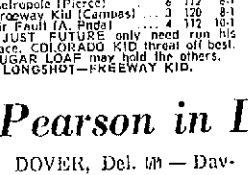

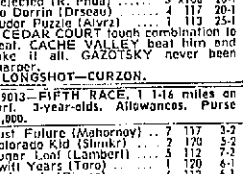

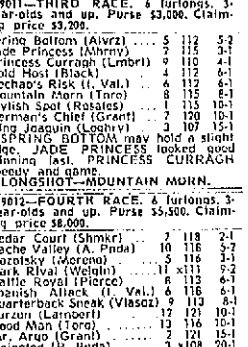

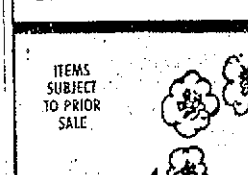

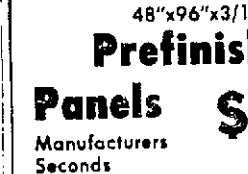

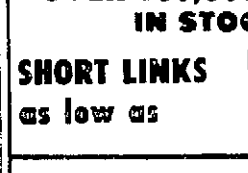

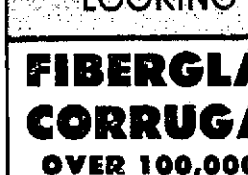

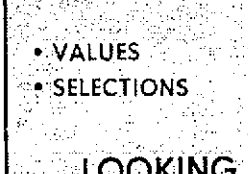

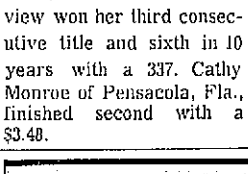

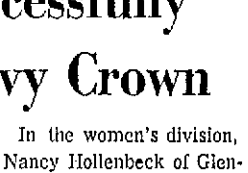

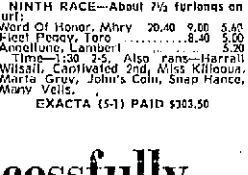

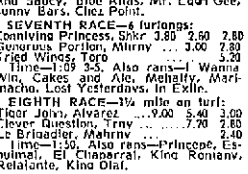

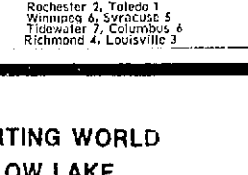

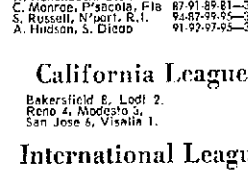

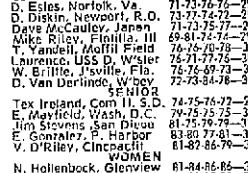

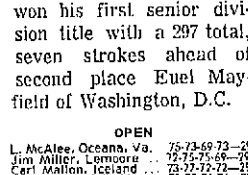

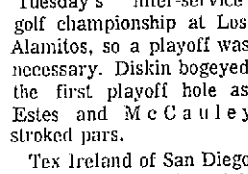

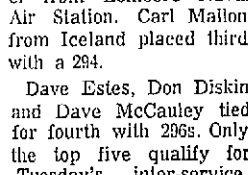

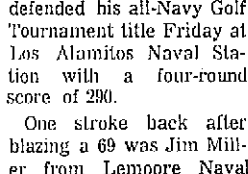

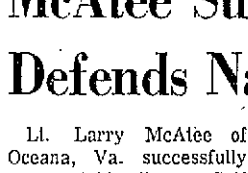

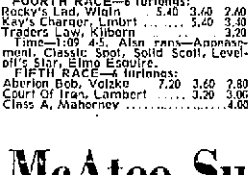

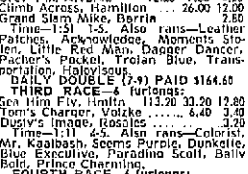

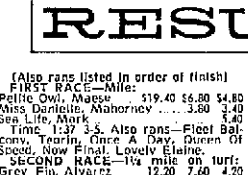

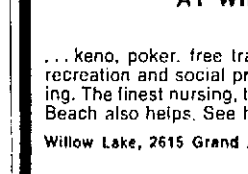

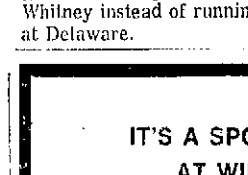

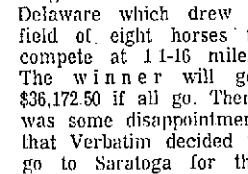

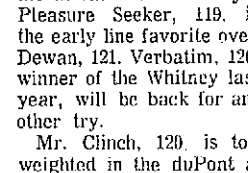

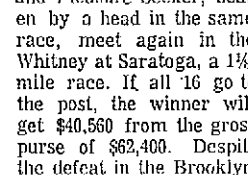

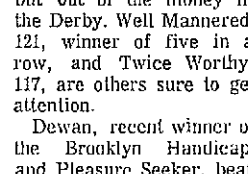

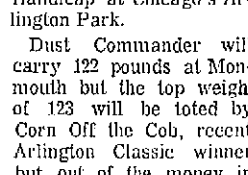

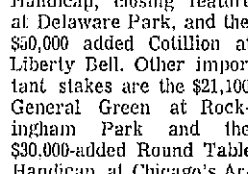

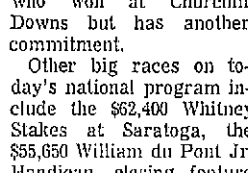

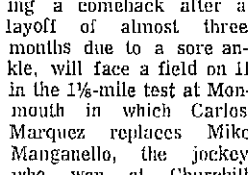

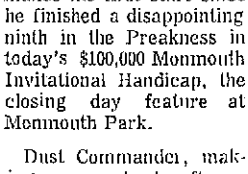

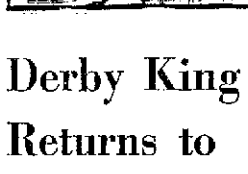

The shoe rode the 2-year-old filly ahead of eight other horses from wire to wire, defeating Generous Portion by 3 1/2 lengths in 1:09 3/5 over six furlongs.

Shoemaker, who needs 34 winners to tie Johnny Longden's lifetime record, finished second and fifth twice on three other mounts.

Conviving Princess paid $3.80, $2.80 and $2.80. The day's longestshot, Sea Jim Fly, won the six-furlong third race for 2-year-old maidens, paying $118.20 to win on 58-1 odds.

Golf Champ Upset

CINCINNATI — Mary Budke of Dundee, Ore., birdied the 18th hole with a two-foot putt Friday to upset Karen Dremonas of Hammond, Ind., one up and win the Western Women's Junior Golf Tournament.

Kamu Concert Not Best Quality for Bowl

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

The death of Sir John Barbirolli last week was noted on Rafael Fruehbeck de Burgos' July 30th Hollywood Bowl program by an unscheduled performance of the "Nimrod" portion of Elgar's "Enigma" Variations. I reported the tribute here, but, as sometimes happens, that part of my review was not published.

And Thursday, to note the passing of George Szell one day after Barbirolli, young Finnish conductor Okko Kamu added, at the top of his all-Sibelius concert in the Bowl, "The Death of Melisande" from that composer's "Pelleas and Melisande."

Otherwise, Kamu's second Bowl appearance this week (I missed his Beethoven evening Tuesday because of the Pro Musica's opening at the Greek), completing his debut engagement at the famous amphitheater, was unmemorable.

THE 24-year-old conductor certainly possesses the confidence and the exterior technique to lead the Los Angeles Philharmonic through a predictable program encompassing Sibelius' Fifth Symphony, the Violin Concerto and "Finlandia." But his gifts and abilities would seem, from this single exposure, not to surpass by any measurable degree the gifts and abilities of other 24-year-old podium personalities Hollywood Bowl has hosted in recent seasons.

His "Finlandia," like his Fifth Symphony, was nicely hurried, excitable if not subtle, direct and forthright. In a setting less auspicious than this one, we might be more impressed by his assurance and by the untroubled way he pushes his way through a score.

RUGGERO RICCI Meets Own Challenge

But this is the big league, and this amphitheater and many of its patrons, can remember other debuts of equal quality and, where these three works are concerned, performances no less than unforgettable.

IN THIS regard, Ruggero Ricci was at a disadvantage, for he was in the uncomfortable position of competing, in our ears, against the stunning performance of the Violin Concerto he himself gave, on this very stage, five years and one month ago.

Everything considered, Ricci met his own challenge successfully, despite the apprehensions we sensed he felt toward his young accompanist. Kamu got through the Concerto neatly enough, but not without moments of shakiness. In other words, he followed, but he did not help.

Gold Star to CSLB's 'Half Sixpence'

By PRESTON REESE
Staff Writer

A gold star on the forehead for each of the 28 kids of Denalee Productions for their performances in "Thursday's Half a Sixpence" at California State College at Long Beach Concerts in the Grove.

A full house (mostly parents) lauded the first of three nights of the British musical comedy which was produced by local amateurs aged 11 to 21. Directors Lee Griffin and Dennis W. King, are drama majors at CSLB and founders of the Denalee theater workshop.

The story takes place in a turn-of-the-century English resort shop where lovers Arthur Kipp, an apprentice drapery hanger, played by Richard Hernandez, and girlfriend Ann, played by Leslie Tinnaro, split a sixpence, both keeping half as a token.

The romance is upset when Kipp inherits a fortune and is swept away by new friends. As he is about to marry a society girl he finds Ann again, marries her, subsequently loses everything in a bad business deal and the two live happily ever after.

In an unfortunate vehicle for an amateur production the cast showed a great potential.

Clarity was somewhat sacrificed with the substitution of a pseudo Cockney accent. Anthony Newley and Tommy Steele, the original Kipp, both born Cockney, often spice the accent on stage in giving the audience what it thinks Cockney should sound like.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Of the five species of Rhaps (raypis) palms, natives from Japan and China, R. flabelliformis and R. humilis are (or were) popular palms and florists favorites in the past. We're going to discuss Rhaps excelsa the taller growing one of the two because they are outstanding upright palms for indoors decoration use whether in a business office, even in a building that might have marble floors and walls, or in a home.

Indoors they must have lots of indirect light. We've seen taller older plants growing in the ground outdoors in full sun, also in partial shade. Outdoor container plants should be in partial shade.

Their distinctive growth habit, which only few kinds of palms have, is the production of suckers at the base forming bushy, yet still upright growth.

JUST SO you visualize the kind of palm we're describing, it grows somewhat reed-like. The stems, fibrous at the base, are topped by orbicular leaves reminding of a fan, having from three to seven segments, but mostly 10.

We have seen a specimen, Rhaps palm 10 feet tall plant growing in a container in the reception room of the Elite Cleaners. It is between 30 to 35 years old and doing beautifully.

It gets filtered sunlight through curtains on the east side, south side, and high overhead fluorescent light from the ceiling during the business hours. The rhaps palm is fed lightly at intervals; was reported by a florist two years ago; separated once and provided five plants; was treated with vitamin B-1 after it was separated; and gets one quart of water at about five to seven days intervals.

It is a beautiful plant. Should you try to purchase one that size or even a smaller one, be prepared for a shock, because they are somewhat expensive. They're worth it!

PERENNIALS, too, are worth planting in your garden because they don't need to be disturbed for several years, then some kinds are dug up, separated and replanted. They dependably flower for certain periods each year. Gardeners can learn helpful flower plantings ideas by being observant as we drive to work or drive leisurely enjoying the scenery. For instance: there are three outstandingly showy, summer blooming perennials that grow in the sun, or mostly sun, excepting in the hot desert areas. Driving thusly we've seen three dependable summer blooming perennials. They are Agapanthus, Day Lilies, and Moraea.

Agapanthus (agape is Greek for love, and anthos is for flower, hence, called "Love Flower Lily of the Nile," but is a native of South Africa, and is also called "African Lily."

These tuberous rooted herbs (perennials) are available in white or blue which is the most popular. They rarely bloom well in shade, and flower best in sun.

HEMEROCALLIS pronounced hem-er-u-kal'is) is from the Greek, Hemeros — meaning day, Kallos meaning beauty — hence a beautiful day. The day lily flower usually lasts but a day. Due to the cluster of flowers buds, the new blossoms succeedingly continue opening and flowering until the whole cluster has finished blooming.

Moraea (pronounced moor-ee-a) also spelled Morea, is a South African herbaceous perennial of the Iris family. Morea Iridoides (iris-like) is called "Natal" or "Fortnight Lily." Unlike the iris or agapanthus, Morea blossoms on the spike don't all flower at once. There is a continuing succession of flowers that begin blooming from the base until finally the topmost blossom has finished flowering.

This blooming period takes about 14 days, hence one of the common names "Fortnight Lily." It flowers more like the Gladiolus which is a member of the Iris family too. Moraea is perhaps the ruggedest growing of the three perennials named, because it grows even in the poorest soil and neglect. Yet it responds to good care and grows best.

All three of these good perennials may be used in the garden landscape in containers, also in sunny annual and perennial flower beds.

The foliage of any of these plants is a restful green color when the plants aren't blooming and still furnish the planted look with only minimum care.

FEW JOBS TO DO IN A GARDEN

Shower bathe camellia foliage, azaleas and gardenias in the evening to provide a humid condition. Feed the plants. One of the large wholesale azalea growers recommends fertilizing azaleas lightly once a month the year round. His reasoning is the fact that most azaleas are grown in sphagnum peat moss which contains no nutrients, hence plants need feeding regularly.

Perennials in containers or flats can be planted any time of the year. Coral bells with red, pink, or white flowers, set out now or soon, will bloom next spring. Tulbaghia violacea bell-like lavender blossoms during the summer provide needed blue tone flowers.

Reason why thick-matted Algerian or English or Dwarf Ivy ground covers foliage has brown cork-like swellings through the leafage is due to a bacterial disease brought on by keeping the soil too moist and lack of air circulation throughout that matted area. Water deeply only when the soil gets dry. The condition slowly clears up.

Russ 'Accused' of Reviving Religion

HONG KONG — One charge leveled by Red China against the Soviet Union in the flareup of antagonism between the two Communist countries, is that the Russians are promoting a revival of religion.

The purpose, says Peking Radio, "is to intoxicate the Soviet people, speed up all-around capitalist restoration and maintain the tottering rule of the revisionists."

NEW BREED OF VEGETABLES

AP Newsfeatures

For almost a decade now, Michigan State University has been providing home gardeners with what it terms "tailor-made" vegetables, which also are important to highly mechanized agriculture.

Literally, breeders are "reshaping" vegetables, with higher quality, more yield, stronger resistance to disease and increased appeal to the eye.

For the mechanized farm, they must adapt to uniform harvesting and high-density planting.

DEVELOPMENT of disease-resistant varieties, the university says, improves wholesomeness and minimizes cost and potential danger of chemical spray programs by reducing the need of them.

Here are some of the "new breed" we are writing about:

Carrots — Spartansweet, a fresh, long, slender market carrot that will be available for commercial planting by 1971.

Green cauliflower — to contrast with the ordinary white. Keeps its color even after cooking.

Celery — experimental, non-bolting that keeps its quality in the field at maturity.

Tomatoes — Tomatoes are being made more shapely, more disease resistant and better adapted to harvesting.

Lawn problems? We have the answers!

Hate Crabgrass?

All it takes to clear out crabgrass is a few minutes on your grass or dichondra lawn with Scotts CLOUT. It goes right to work on crabgrass—makes it shrivel and begin to disappear in just a few days. A second application one week later, knocks it out completely. The sooner you spread CLOUT, the better—before it can crowd out any more of your lawn.

*"HOW COME I'M ALWAYS GLADDER TO SEE YOU THAN YOU ARE TO SEE ME?"

YOUR HOROSCOPE
by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

YOUR DAY TODAY: Your strong special skills can lead forward all year. Much of what you must do is activity that nobody around can do as well. The time is ripe for your own dreams of more special opportunities for investment. Avoid overextension, commitment to too many projects, or your obligations. Today's milvies care little for public opinion; have their own personal system for getting things done.

ARIEI (March 21-April 19): The tension of the past year's share in the community expression of faith, mental pursuits become more interesting in the coming.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Any firm commitment in your own group plans. Listen carefully before you begin directing activities. Intellectual ventures may be attention.

GEHANI (May 21-June 20): Your feelings are not to be taken lightly — must be before you comment. You'll find people notice your restraint will be most helpful.

CANCER (June 21-July 20): Information or better realization of new relationships in your neighborhood may give you a moment of stress, regret, or a new beginning.

LEO (July 21-Aug. 22): Family and community affairs build up to sudden insurance. Be sure everybody is informed. The evening is on behalf of all. The evening is for pastimes.

PIGARO (Aug. 29-Sept. 12): Trying too hard to get too much ground too early depletes your resources. Tensions decrease as you learn to follow your own lead in pursuing your purposes. A search for answers, misplaced, may bring you a quicker resolution.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 12): Intellectual challenges can be fascinating. You have a tendency to overanalyze, but the results of your friendliness, Laid, avoid the fun.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You may become tougher than you really are, but your sensitivity to the needs of others is more sensitive than usual. Avoid the business deals.

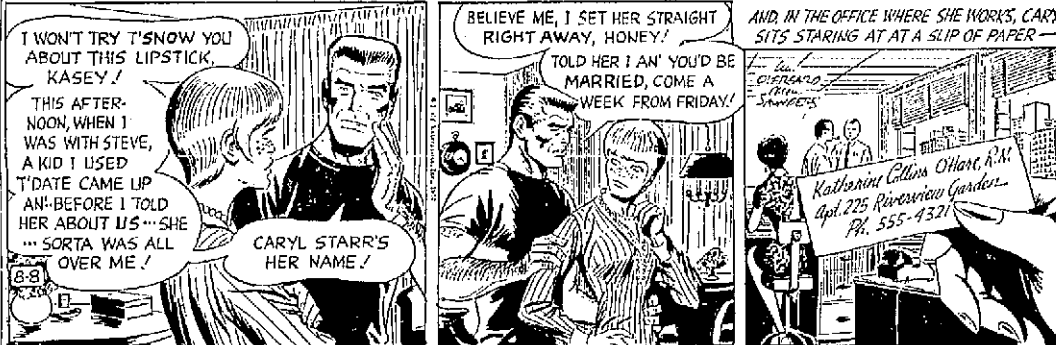

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Reassess your requirements, particularly over some last-minute responses. Change plans toward a more realistic goal.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your plans may move more today than usual, but you're listening instead of demanding. Your friends are helping lead you through the work things you. Entertainment this month is really.

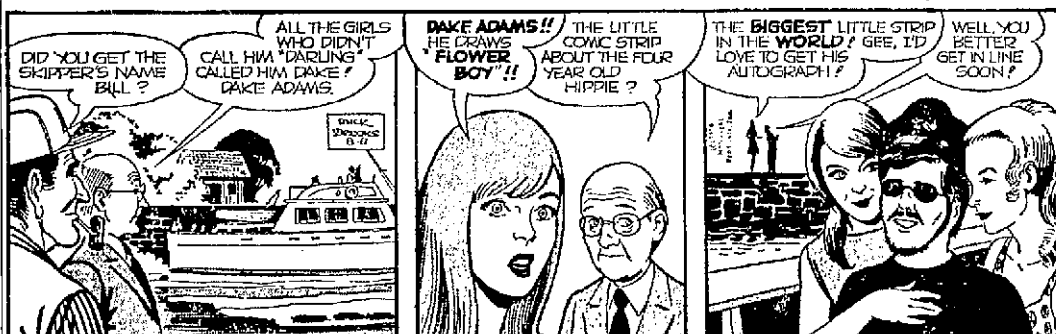

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your friends may have mixed reactions, some understanding, but not all of the same. You may find the use of the situation.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Intellectual hobbies give you a lot of satisfaction. Your friends will be a challenge.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Don't let your own desires spoil your chances for a more cooperative effort with close associates. Your intuition lead to a more successful day.
